DINIS TO GO AHEAD WITH INQUEST INTO KENNEDY AUTO DEATH

DIST. ATTY. EDMUND S. DINIS said Wednesday he would go ahead with an inquest into the death of a young secretary in Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's car even though a district court judge declined temporarily to approve the request for the inquest. Dist. Judge James A. Boyle of Edgartown said in a letter to Dinis the request for the inquest was "unclear" for a number of reasons. He questioned whether Dinis was asking the judge to use his "discretionary powers" to approve the inquest or whether he—Dinis—planned to proceed on his own, "exercising the mandatory power given to you by law." The inquest would probe the death of Mary Jo Kopechne, 28, of Washington, who was drowned when Kennedy's car plunged off a bridge and flipped into a tidal pond on Chappaquidick Island near Martha's Vineyard around midnight July 18. Dinis said he would seek an autopsy on the body of Miss Kopechne and that he expected the inquest would be held "within two months or sooner."

$25 MILLION WAREHOUSE FIRES WORK OF ARSONISTS

THE STATE FIRE MARSHAL said Wednesday two fires that caused 25 million in damages to a huge Stop and Shop warehouse were the work of arsonists. Even before the explosion studded fires tore through the 11-acre warehouse in the Hyde Park section of Boston off Neponset Valley Parkway, officials noted, five fires of suspicious origin had been discovered in the building in the last three weeks. State Fire Marshal Ralph Garrett said the general alarm fire Tuesday night was "unquestionably of incendiary origin." There were no injuries in the blaze. Sidney Raab, Stop and Shop president, said new facilities are under construction in North Haven and that "we plan to rebuild" on the site of the destroyed facility. The company president said all stores "are well stocked."

COUNCIL COMMUTES LIFE SENTENCES OF 2 BRINKS ROBBERS

THE EXECUTIVE COUNCIL unanimously approved commutation of life sentences Wednesday for two members of the gang that robbed the Brink's Co. of $1.2 million 19 years ago. The action makes them eligible for parole immediately but they face two-year conspiracy sentences. Vincent J. Costa, 55, of Dorchester, and Thomas F. Richardson, 62, of Wemouth, were sentenced after their convictions Oct. 9, 1956, in Suffolk Superior Court on three counts of armed robbery in the holdup. The council also unanimously approved commutation for Walter J. Kivlehan, 51, of Boston, serving a life sentence in Walpole prison for the 1957 murder of his 70-year-old mother.

ADMINISTRATION FEARS COST OF TAX REFORM BILL

THE NIXON ADMINISTRATION reportedly thinks the fight against inflation is being won, but it is worried that tax reform legislation will slow progress by costing the Treasury more than it brings in. A high ranking official said the administration has not decided if it will ask the Senate to erase the $2 billion deficit in the bill about to be passed by the House. The administration likes most of the bill and is reluctant to take the politically risky step of asking the Senate to either increase the revenue-making provisions or restrict the tax relief of the House proposal.

WHITE HOUSE REJECTS MORE FUNDS FOR HEADSTART PROGRAM

THE NIXON ADMINISTRATION rejected as premature Wednesday legislation that would provide an increase in funds for Headstart, the most popular anti-poverty program of Lyndon B. Johnson's Great Society. James Farmer, assistant health, education and welfare secretary and the highest ranking Negro in the administration, testified that six months of study was necessary before HEW could recommend a program of expansion for Headstart. He said he feared that pouring $1.2 billion into Headstart this year would deprive poor children of funds that should go into health and welfare programs.

MOON MINDS TALK WITH QUARANTINED ASTRONAUTS ABOUT ROCKS

A SCIENTIFIC GROUP of top moon minds talked with the quarantined Apollo 11 astronauts Wednesday about those rocks. The scientists hoped to find from the spacemen and the lunar rocks they brought back to earth some clue to the moon's formation. Dr. Harold Urey, a Nobel prize winning lunar expert, said examinations of the moon rocks and studies of the data radioed back to earth have "got us all guessing as to what the facts are" about how the lunar surface was formed.

SHEPARD AND LOVELL NEW MOON MISSION COMMANDERS

THE SPACE AGENCY in Houston Wednesday named veteran astronauts Allan B. Shepard Jr. and James A. Lovell to command new moon missions. Lovell, who has spent more time in space than any other man, will fly in Apollo 13 with rookies astronauts Thomas K. Mattingly and Fred W. Haise. Shepard, the first American in space, will be accompanied on Apollo 14 by rookies Stuart Roosa and Edgar D. Mitchell. Both flights are scheduled for 1970.

OFFICIALS TO AIR FINDINGS ON PLANET MARS TODAY

JET PROPULSION Laboratory officials at Pasadena, Calif., scheduled a news conference for today to air some of the scientific findings as to age and origin of the planet Mars in the light of new evidence supplied by the Mariner 7 space craft. The spacecraft completed its mission to Mars Wednesday when it transmitted to earth 32 close-up photos and scientific data from onboard instruments.

NAVY OPENS SECRET HEARINGS INTO LOSS OF USS EVANS

THE U.S. NAVY at Subic Bay Base, the Philippines, Wednesday opened secret hearings into the loss of the USS Evans and 74 crewmen to determine whether there are grounds for disciplinary action against the destroyer's three senior officers. The Evans was sliced in two by the Australian aircraft carrier Melbourne on June 3 during joint maneuvers in the South China Sea. The three officers involved are Cmdr. Albert S. McLemore, 40, of Vallejo, Calif., the captain; Lt. (jg) Ronald C. Ramsey, 24, of Long Beach, Calif.; and Lt. (jg) James A. Hopson, 28, of Kansas City, Kans. McLemore was in his cabin at the time of the collision; Ramsey was the senior officer of the deck and Hopson was his junior officer.

MANUEL, traveling companion of Norman Collins, accused slayer of one of seven girl murder victims in Michigan was arrested Wednesday by FBI agents in Phoenix, Ariz., in connection with the string of slayings. Manuel will be returned to Michigan "as soon as the time is ripe," a spokesman for state investigators said in Ypsilanti, Mich.

U.S. FORCES FIRE ARTILLERY BARRAGES INTO VIETNAM DMZ

AMERICAN FORCES fired three artillery barrages into the Demilitarized Zone separating North and South Vietnam, silencing two Communist rocket positions and touching off explosions and fire, military spokesmen reported Wednesday. The spokesmen said the U.S. guns hit the buffer strip Tuesday night after the Communists struck Allied positions south of the DMZ with two rocket attacks and North Vietnamese soldiers were spotted in the zone.

THREE AMERICAN SERVICEMEN, pale and gaunt from long months as prisoners of war in North Vietnam, left Bangkok by plane Wednesday on the way home. Flying via Europe, they are scheduled to arrive in New York tonight. Freed Monday were Navy Lt. (jg) Robert Frishman, 28, of Santee, Calif.; Air Force Capt. Wesley Rumble, 26, of Oroville, Calif.; and Navy Seaman Douglas Hegdahl, 23, of Clark, S.D. All were captured between 15 and 18 months ago.

Newton's New School Head Planning For Crucial Future

By SHIRLEY GOLDWYN

Newton's new Superintendent of Schools, Aaron Fink, 47 year old former principal of Scarsdale, N.Y. High School, assumed his new post this week at an annual salary of $37,000, the highest currently paid to any public educator in Massachusetts.

He succeeds Dr. James Laurits who has been acting superintendent since the resignation of Dr. Charles Brown a year ago. Dr. Laurits will resume his former position as assistant superintendent for personnel.

Fink said there are many similarities between the communities of Scarsdale and Newton and many differences since Newton is larger and more urban in nature.

"The next ten years will be crucial to both cities and the large suburban areas around them. It will require great imagination to solve the problems," he opined.

However, Fink said he does not find in Newton the feeling that a high wall exists between this suburb and the core city and he finds very attractive the lack of a strong desire to hang on to the atmosphere of the past and a willingness to cope with the present and the future.

Among Fink's goals for the Calls On NRA To Schedule Meeting In Evening Hours

Rep. Alderman H. James Shea, Jr. this week again called upon the Newton Redevelopment Authority to reschedule their meeting time from 8:30 Tuesday morning to the evening hours when average citizens could attend.

Shea stated: "In June I formally requested the Newton Redevelopment Authority to change its meeting time to the evening thus permitting the average citizen to attend. Informally I have made this same request since June of 1967.

"Although my request was duly before the Authority at its July 8th meeting, apparently because 2 of the 5 members were absent, no action was taken on my petition. I urge the Authority to act favorably upon my request at their next scheduled meeting — 8:30 in the morning of Tuesday, August 12th."

"In my letter I requested that you adopt a new policy of meeting in the evening, thus permitting greater citizen involvement in the Newton urban renewal process. I also stated that 'to continue your present policy of conducting your monthly meetings early in the morning is to give the impression that you choose to avoid public scrutiny and that you reject the concept of citizen involvement in the political process.'

"I also pointed out that 'The Newton Board of Aldermen, Newton School Committee and Newton Housing Authority are similar to your Authority in that they are made up of appointed or elected citizens who serve without compensation. These citizen-officials all have great demands upon their schedules, but they do make it their policy to meet in the evenings thus permitting the average citizen to actually attend their meetings in accord with the 'Open Meeting Law' and in accord with the desire to expand citizens' access to governing instrumentalities.'

Shea concluded his statement by declaring that evening meetings by the Newton Redevelopment Authority are clearly in the public interest and better conform with the federal requirement for citizen participation in urban renewal.

Bar Association Endorses Skinner

The Massachusetts Bar Association came out this week with a strong endorsement of Atty. Walter J. Skinner, of 256 Park St., Newton, for appointment to the Superior Court bench.

Skinner, prosecutor for the now defunct State Crime Commission, has been twice submitted to the Executive Council for approval of his appointment to a judgeship. He has been rejected each time by identical 5-2 votes.

However, Gov. Sargent, speaking at a Republican outing in Marlboro last Sunday, said he would submit Skinner's appointment, "three, four, five times if necessary."

The Bar Association said Skinner is "fully qualified" to sit on the Superior Court bench, with an "outstanding reputation as a lawyer, and possessing judicial temperament and unquestioned integrity."

The stand of the Governor's Council against Skinner stems from his association with the Crime Commission which indicted and convicted four 1960 executive councilors. They were convicted of conspiracy and soliciting a bribe in connection with an appointment.

for both teachers and students."

Another goal which Fink regards as paramount is "provision of more opportunity for students to assume responsibilities for their own education."

Schools have a responsibility to train students for the kind of freedom they now find in colleges and in other roles after their secondary education is completed, Fink commented.

"This should not be confused with permissiveness, however," he cautioned.

Actually this kind of approach is more demanding and it's crucial, he declared.

"An individual has to be trained to learn for himself. If he doesn't he's going to be obsolescent," he added.

This doesn't mean the students should be separated from the teachers or left to their own devices. It means, in part, a new role for teachers in guiding and being there for help. Actually it will be a more difficult role, Fink suggested.

"We are also facing the challenge generally in education of providing real participation on the part of students and teachers in the development of programs and the evaluation of results," he noted.

"Part of the problem where there has been disruption is that we have tried to limit the involvement of people who have dissented rather than broadening the involvement to include others who also have legitimate concern about what goes on in the school. The broader the involvement, the more likely we are to be rational in our deliberations. This results in shared responsibility for decisions made," the new superintendent said.

With regard to innovation, Fink said, "there is always room for improvement and we need innovation and change to avoid obsolescence."

However, he pointed out, whenver you change you must build in some system for evaluation and "you have to be pretty hardheaded in that evaluation."

The important thing is evaluation," he stressed, "and openmindedness is a prerequisite."

"Critics of specific programs are sometimes asking us to be more open-minded," he said.

Fink said some of his immediate time will be consumed with work on the building of the new Newton High School and the new Day Junior High School.

In line with this will be the development of programs which more modern buildings will allow.

Candidate Fishman Names Co-chairman for Campaign

Representative Irving Fishman of Newton, an announced candidate for Mayor in the November 4th election, has designated two associates with extensive political experience as co-chairmen of his campaign.

They are Representative Paul F. Malloy of 66 Wildwood Avenue, West Newton, who is now serving his third term in the state legislature, and Sidney S. Bronstein of 1388 Walnut Street, Newton Highlands, an official of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and chairman of the Ward 8 Democratic Committee.

Rep. Fishman declared that he had "full confidence that Rep. Malloy and Mr. Bronstein will be valuable aides in assisting me to carry my campaign message, 'He Can Do Better', all the voters of Newton who are concerned with the future of our city."

Rep. Malloy is an attorney with offices in West Newton and is well known for his many community activities.

Sidney Bronstein is a former state treasurer of Americans for Democratic Action and has been an active participant in political campaigns in Newton for many years.

Fink also said "there is going to have to be more involvement outside of the local community in terms of funds from the state and federal governments. The local taxpayer is being taxed to the hilt."

Fink, who served as principal of Scarsdale High School since 1961, holds a B.S. degree from Rutgers University and Ed. M. from Harvard and has completed all course requirements for an Ed. D. degree.

He was a John Hay Fellow in Humanities at Williams College and at Harvard was a member of the Editorial Board of the Harvard Educational Review.

Before going to Scarsdale he served as principal of Niskayuna High School in Schenectady, New York, and as principal of Stoughton High School in Stoughton, Mass.

He began his professional career as a high school teacher of English and history, and was a counselor at the Guidance Center at Harvard from 1946-49. He was Director of Guidance for the public schools of Stoughton. He also served as Lecturer in Education and Assistant Director of Graduate Training in Guidance and School Counseling for the New York City Board of Higher Education for one year prior to returning to Stoughton as high school principal.

From 1949 to 1959 Fink taught part-time and summers in the graduate schools of education at Harvard, the University of New Hampshire and Northeastern University. He served three years in the Army Air Force during World War II.

In recent years the new superintendent served as consultant to the National Project for the Improvement of Televised Instruction, a project administered by the National Association of Educational Broadcasters under a grant by the Ford Foundation. He has also served as a member of the selection panel for the I.T.V. Humanities Project, administered by the WGBH Educational Foundation with a grant from the National Endowment for the Humanities.

Fink has moved his residence to Chestnut Hill Rd. in Newton where he lives with his wife and two children, one of whom is starting at Clark University in the fall and one of whom is a junior at Wheelock College.

He said he had watched duplicate bridge being played before, when he was visiting his son, the Reverend George H. Cave, Jr., of Tampa, Florida, but he had never tried it himself.

His partner, Salvatore Errera, a retired New England Confectionery Company candy maker who lives at 4 Peabody Street, Newton, was not a total novice, had played duplicate at the Newton Y.

The three Library sessions were led by pro William H. Keohane of Wellesley Hills, who gave his time and expertise to the Newton Library's first endeavor, and who explained to beginners that duplicate bridge is a game designed to test the skill and abilities of bridge players who all play the same hands with different partners.

Mr. Keohane, originator of the New England Bridge Institute, has known throughout the area as "Mr. Bridge," and is coordinator for the New England Bridge Conference, the Eastern Mass. Bridge Association, and is Examiner for the American Contract Bridge League on all new systems and conventions in Eastern Canada and the New England states.

Newton High graduate and Bridge Club member Bill Renke, a leading student bridge player, coordinated the Bridge Binge for the Library, and involved many students like Lawrence Rome and Richard Kruger, who helped explain the workings of duplicate to newcomers.

Kruger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Israel Kruger of 181 Bellevue Street, and Rome, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Friedman of 819 Commonwealth Avenue, are entering their senior year at Newton High School, where they will co-captain the Chess Club this year.

The top winners of the three duplicate sessions were Ann Cohen and John Pappas, who won at 2 different sessions. Mrs. Max Schertzer and Mrs. Theodore Levin, Mrs. Joseph Malley and Mrs. E. Mishkin, and H. Belt and A.C. Mikels.

Co-chairing with Bill Renke for the Newton Free Library's first Bridge Binge were Mrs. Edith Brooks Corman, Mrs. Marilyn Ostrow, and Mrs. Walter Albersheim.

That Toll Road - Again!

Once again the Legislature has passed a bill providing for a north-south toll road through Worcester County. The measure was passed last year and it then had a $65 million price tag. This year, the price went up to $80 million.

Last time around, ex-Governor John A. Volpe pocket-vetoed the bill by not acting on it in the closing days of the legislative session. Governor Sargent is expected to emulate Volpe's action.

The puzzling thing about the legislation is the persistence of the toll road boosters. This is the third time they have tried to have the road constructed. The first time the Legislature wouldn't go along, and the measure died. It passed last year and was vetoed and it passed again this year and is expected to be vetoed again.

It is hard to understand why the Legislature enacted this expensive bill when it was brought out in debate that a freeway is being constructed by the Department of Public Works only a few miles to the east of the proposed route of the toll road.

Last year, Chairman John T. Driscoll of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, the construction agency for the controversial road, said the road wouldn't pay its own way but would require a state subsidy to defray the deficit. In the present bill, an amendment was added by the House to eliminate the pledging of state credit as a potential subsidy for the Turnpike Authority. A splendid move, especially in view of the fact that subsidization would violate the self-sustaining principle upon which the MTA was established.

However, the legislation calls for the use of unfunded gasoline taxes as the vehicle to defray needed bond issues. This strategem may prove to be unconstitutional.

Four or five years ago, a $700,000 study by the consultant firm of Edwards and Kelsey showed there would not be sufficient traffic volume to warrant an early priority for the proposed double-barreled highway.

In the face of all the on-the-record opposition and/or arguments against this extremely expensive $80 million road, and the dubious legality of the gas tax usage, it is difficult to understand how the Legislature could pass a bill calling for its construction.

The north-south toll road proposal is bad legislation. There seems little to warrant its enactment into law. Governor Sargent should veto it.

Dimming Freedom's Light

We seem to live in an age of the decree, the ultimatum and the demand — all aimed at achieving the good life by some sort of shortcut process. When demands and ultimatums fail, senseless civil disorder and destruction have become almost routine.

No matter how logical the explanations given for the rise of the idea that brute force is the handmaiden of progress, the fact remains that in practice it never works. The more prevalent force becomes, the more rapidly civilization declines and the good things in life disappear.

Exponents of force usually have a macabre ending by violence. Classic examples have been the dictators Mussolini and Hitler.

There are those who point to the American Revolution as justification for any acts of wanton violence. Such a perverted interpretation of history is a poor excuse for joining the crowd who thinks that the ultimatum and the riot will force open the door to progress and spiritual and material abundance. These things, along with confiscatory taxation, expropriation of property and failure to respect the personal rights of others, dim the light of freedom for everyone.

Negotiations Continuing In Service Facility Row

Setting a new deadline of Sept. 1, officials this week continued negotiations in an attempt to settle the West Newton-Auburndale toll road service facility dispute.

Ald. Matthew Jefferson said "the city is negotiating with the Turnpike Authority in an effort to buy the land." He said Myrtle Baptist Church members are working with the mayor in an attempt to reach agreement on fundamental issues.

One of the major issues is the financial arrangements.

The mayor has offered to buy the entire site of 140,000 square feet of land but the Authority has not approved his offer. The plan has been to use a portion of the land for low-income housing and to sell the remainder to the church.

Jefferson said that as a city official he couldn't condone turning the land over to the church free of charge.

How much the city will pay the Authority for the site and how much the church will pay the city for a piece of the land is still in the negotiating stage.

Jackson said "the first objective is to get the land back in the hands of the city."

Peabody Campers Visit Aquarium, Public Gardens

Children from the Peabody Day Camp in Oak Hill visited the New England Aquarium last Thursday. This camp is sponsored by the City of Newton for retarded children in the community. The trip was very enjoyable and the children saw many types of fish and sea life.

After going through the Aquarium the children took a sightseeing tour of Boston and stopped at the Public Gardens for a picnic on the grass. After a walk around the Public Gardens the children returned to camp where they were picked up by their buses.

There were 25 children on the trip. These children were accompanied by Mr. Penney, head of the Newton Recreation Dept., Thomas Naughton, Director of the camp; Linda Davis, Asst. Director; Myra Silberstein and Jane Albert, counselors, and Tak Matausaka, Barbara Baker, Kris Foley, Barbara Rosenblom, Barbara Solomon, Rachelle Tucker, Ellen White, Lesley Rortman, Lynn Arenella, Carol Radio.

These people are volunteers who help the camp staff. The camp is an opportunity for a summer experience for the children. During the camp the children are taught arts and crafts, swimming and skill games.

The camp runs for six weeks and will end on Aug. 15. Next week the children will have a barbecue and the following week there will be a Parents Day just before the end of camp.

Political Highlights

a political issue which he will use in next year's election campaign.

Whether that will actually prove to be the case is a question time will answer. Councillor McDonough and four of his colleagues have been lambasted by some columnists, cartoonists and editorial writers.

Hints have been dropped in the form of a very thinly veiled threat that the League of Women Voters might even be persuaded to launch a drive to abolish the Governor's Council entirely.

The complaint against the Governor's Council seems to take two forms: (1) That Mr. Skinner has excellent credentials for service as a Superior Court jurist. (2) That the Council should approve a Governor's judicial nomination without raising any question about it or face the prospect of getting legislated out of existence.

Councillor McDonough, who is not one to back away from a fight or to mince words when he is stating what he means, charges bluntly that Mr. Skinner is not competent to be a judge.

McDonough further alleges that the now defunct State Crime Commission was politically motivated and that Mr. Skinner carried out the commission's work for it.

Whatever the merit or substance may be to the charges McDonough levels at Skinner, the facts are and the record shows that men were indicted on evidence too flimsy to stand up in court.

Their reputations were destroyed, their careers ruined; in some cases their health was shattered because of the indictments obtained against them.

They lived under a cloud for a period of years waiting for their day in court and a chance to clear themselves, and in the end the cases against some of them were dropped.

That is what McDonough is talking about, and Attorney Skinner on the record, regardless of his capabilities for service as a Superior Court justice, must accept responsibility for the fact that the lives of men and their families were torn asunder by Crime Commission indictments which in the end appeared to be unjust.

Former Governor Foster Furcolo, former Republican House Speaker Charles Gibbons, former GOP House Leader Frank Giles, former State Public Works Commissioner Anthony DiNatale were among those who lived under a cloud created by Crime Commission-sought indictment for a period of their lives.

The average person would be hard pressed now to tell you why any of the four was indicted. All he can remember was that they were accused of doing something wrong, and his memory is somewhat vague as to what happened after that.

A rule of justice is that a man is considered innocent until he is proven guilty, but for all practical purposes a person in political life who is indicted is considered guilty until he proves himself innocent.

Sometimes a case just fades away, and the memory becomes blurred as what finally happened in it.

Of all the cases which developed from the Crime Commission probes, that of Charles Gibbons was the most pathetic.

Gibbons was highly respected on Beacon Hill. He was a hard-working Republican member of the House of Representatives.

He was the Republican leader of the House when the late Paul A. Dever was Governor, and he became the Speaker when the late Christian A. Herter moved into the Governor's office.

Gibbons was the Republican nominee for Lieutenant Governor in 1956 and for Governor in 1958 following the death of the late George Fingold.

He subsequently served as chairman of the Republican State Committee and as deputy Governor or chairman of the State Commission on Administration and Finance, the highest appointive position in the State government.

His public career abruptly ended when Gib-

Second Genesis: Coming Control of Life

Genetic Research Hopes To Control Man's Aging

Is it possible that man in the future may be able to lengthen his life span to 200 years? The answer, says science writer Albert Rosenfeld, must be yes. He explains what might make this possible in this excerpt from his new book "The Second Genesis: The Coming Control of Life" (Prentice-Hall).

By ALBERT ROSENFELD

SEVERAL YEARS AGO, I was driving from New York to Philadelphia with my family in our old Chrysler, which had served us beautifully, with no major troubles at all, for many years. But that Saturday morning, on the New Jersey Turnpike, the engine went out, all at once. It simply quit, like the wonderful one-hoss shay, and was good thereafter only for the筠kyard.

At the time, I couldn't help thinking: That's the way I'd like to go. With all cylinders going to the end. To feel, like Walter Savage Landor, that "I warmed both hands before the fire of life; it sinks, and I am ready to depart."

The great 19th-century biologist Dr. Elie Metchnikoff had the same kind of yearning, and he wondered why so few people seemed ready to go when the time came. He became obsessed with the idea, and decided it was because men usually die before they attain the life span of which they are truly capable.

"Aging," as British biologist Dr. Alex Comfort puts it, "is an unpopular process with man." It is not merely unpopular with individual men, but is a major tragedy for society.

Just as a man finally reaches a point in his chronology where his painfully accumulated store of wisdom and experience will perhaps enable him to make his major contribution to his fellow men; just at this same point where he has finished raising his children and discharged his basic social obligations, leaving him free to concentrate on whatever creative longings he has postponed; precisely at this point, his energy declines and his organism begins to deteriorate. To help study aging in cells, scientists have at their command an arsenal of drugs which inhibit or encourage the synthesis of DNA, RNA, and proteins. One set of experiments has provided tantalizing but inconclusive evidence that the decline of RNA synthesis (a process directed by DNA) in the liver of an aging rat could be stepped up again by the addition of fresh DNA from a young rat.

The hope for a real quantum jump extension of the human lifespan, or of a major injection of new vigor into the now-senile years, seems to lie in genetic control. Implicit in such control are others—the control of cancer and the degenerative diseases.

An entire organ—a liver of kidney, say, might be grown from a single cell, properly instructed and nourished; even an entire human being might theoretically be grown from a single cell, taken from anywhere in the body, if the genetic material were in perfect condition and all triggering and inhibiting substances were placed as in the original fertilized ovum.

Seek Girls For JLL Chapter Of B'nai B'rith

The Joshua Loth Liebman Chapter of B'nai B'rith Girls is looking for anyone interested in the many and varied activities of B'nai B'rith to become a Member in Training in their Chapter.

As a Member in Training you will participate in all the activities, socials, community involvement, and religious programs, the way the old members do, but along with this, you will be learning what techniques to come from?

From radical new insights—presumably to be discovered by the gerontologists—into the nature of the aging process itself. The most fruitful of these insights may well emerge from studies of the genetic material, the cell's nucleic acids, DNA and RNA.

DNA May Be Answer To Aging Problem

The DNA in the original fertilized egg cell contains, like a gigantic computer the Humphrey. In their judgment Muskie has personal charm, ability and a low-key style which appeals to voters of all ages.

No! They're continuing to update the record in a little less detail—just in case Ted should change his

The three young readers, whose interest was fired by fictional children who also became entranced with the wonders of the land of mummies and monoliths, borrowed every book about Egypt which they and Branch Librarian Arlene Lynde could find at the Newton Free Library. Following costume details they found in library books, Alison became Cleopatra in a silken white gown sewn from parachute silk, with black yarn wig, cardboard cobra headdress, and golden arm bracelet.

Miss Erickson - Mr. Flaherty Marry In Newtonville

The United Methodist Church in Newtonville was the recent scene for the marriage of Miss Betty-Mae Erickson to Patrick Michael Flaherty.

The bride is the daughter of Professor and Mrs. Franklin C. Erickson of Newtonville. Mr. and Mrs. Patrick J. Flaherty of Dorchester are the groom's parents.

The bride given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin A-line gown designed with a chiffon over-cress embroidered with lilies of the valley, entwined.

Her elbow length illusion veil was fastened to a white crown. Her flowers, arranged in a cascade, were pink white and blue carnations.

Miss Sally Hilda Erickson was her sister's maid of honor. Miss Mary Jane Colegrove of Syracuse, N.Y., and Miss Barbara Ann McDonough, cousin of the groom, were bridesmaids. Arthritis Treatment

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Disability from arthritis can be prevented in the majority of cases if proper treatment and comprehensive care are started early, according to the California director of public health.

Dr. Louis F. Saylor said an estimated 1-1/2 million persons in California alone suffer from some form of arthritis and urged those affected to seek medical help promptly.

Saylor said arthritis is not one disease but several related illnesses, including osteoarthritis and rheumatoid arthritis. Women are affected more often than men and incidence appears to increase as family income decreases.

Narcotics In Prison

BALTIMORE (UPI) — One-fourth of all persons sentenced to Maryland prisons for convictions of narcotics offenses continue to use shots that had been rolling off narcotics regularly while in the rim, now swished through prison, according to a study by the Maryland Commission to Study Drug Addiction.

Exhibiting an all-around in cohesiveness that at times bordered on indescribable, the Newton South Lions basketball team managed to get bombed, 68-37, by the Arrows, last Monday, at Cabot School Playground.

Whatever South's disorganization missed, 64-6, Dave Foley took care of Foley twisted, turned and jumped, moving in and out of the Lions defenses at will, to score 31 points. At the same time he was a veritable monster on the boards, monopolizing them completely.

At the half, the score read only 27-22, however, South went into its traditional second-half slump and the Arrows just kept piling it on.

High man for the Lions was guard Kenny Grossman with 9 points. Tom Green, 8, Scott Casty, 7, Al Markovsky, 6, Lew Freedman, 4, and Don Cohen, 3, followed in the point tabulation.

For three quarters, last Thursday, a determined Lion five held play-off-bound Our Lady's and left the court ahead, 35-34.

The final period was a nightmare. The Our Lady's

With Waltham Lions are 2-6 and in sixth place in the eight-team league.

John Corcoran led the way for the Lions with 16 points.

Garber, 8, Rich, 7, Bobby Sherman, 6, and St. Schwartz, 4, tallied the rest.

The Newton League entry, 2-9 rounds out its season, this week, with games against the second-place Police AA and league-rader, St. Bernard's.

Matthews Club In Blazing Finish For League Title

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

After three consecutive losses a week ago, it looked like the Matthews Club was going to surrender the Newton National Division pennant to Newton Centre.

Matthews rose to the occasion, however, and blanked the Boys' Club, and Upper Falls, 3-0, before downing Center in a special play-off, 7-1, to claim the league title.

Each game was a must for Matthews, last week. Jethro Mills responded to the challenge and fired a three-hit shut-out at the Boys' Club. He whiffed 14, while walking only three.

Matthews collected six hits — two of the bat of catcher Jim Genovese — and seven walks, after not having a man reach base in the first two innings.

Centre maintained its slim lead with Bill Gorgone twirling a one-hitter at St. Bernard's. Gorgone struck out 7. The only hit off Gorgone was a double by shortstop Bob Matloff, who was the only one to hit the ball.

Earlier in the week, the Falcons edged Silver Lake, 4-2. Waban had all four of its hits in the fourth inning with Bill Keeler's double the key blow in the three-run inning. Monahan got the win, walking out five and walking one.

In the league play-off, Matthews raked three Centre hurlers for six hits and four walks, mostly over the first four innings to gain the Division crown.

Jethro Mills was the winning pitcher, fanning 11, while scattering five hits.

Bob Manson smashed two hits for the victors.

Tourists Get Soaked

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — For many years, delegates to countless international and other conventions on tourism deplored the imposition of "head taxes" and similar special assessments as a major deterrent to travel. And for years the criticisms fell on deaf ears and the "soak the tourist" practice has continued to spread.

Americans often were in the forefront of the fight to end such discriminatory measures on travelers. But now even the United States apparently has retreated.

Congress is expected to approve President Nixon's request for a new $3 tax on most international flights and an increase in the current tax on domestic flights to help finance a $5 billion, 10-year program to improve the nation's airports and airways facilities.

But there are even more disturbing signs for the American traveler here at home.

Earlier this year, an Indiana court ruled illegal an attempt by the Evansville-Vanderburgh Airport Authority District to impose a $1 head tax on all departing passengers after Eastern, Delta and Allegheny Airlines filed challenges.

But beginning Aug. 31, barring expected court action by the airlines and other interested parties, New Hampshire will collect a $1 tax from passengers leaving the state by plane. It is the first state to adopt such a measure and raises the rather frightening prospect that others will follow suit.

And while the Hawaiian legislature took no action on various proposals for direct city and state taxes ranging as high as $14 on all visitors, including fellow Americans from the other 49 states, proponents have not surrendered. A study into the entire tourist situation has been ordered by the state and its findings are scheduled to be reported next year.

Most foreign countries have been collecting "head taxes" in one form or another from visitors for years.

The most favored methods are imposition of airport and seaport taxes. For travelers whose itineraries include several countries, these can add up to a tidy — and sometimes unexpected — additional sum.

SEAPORT TAXES

Seaport taxes usually are assessed on arrival — in some countries cruise passengers pay at every port visited. Airport taxes generally are collected on departure — long a sore point with American and other foreign travelers who have not been advised in advance of the final squeeze on their funds.

Recently, the West German Airports Association dropped its $1.25 departure tax on passengers in favor of a $1.25 landing fee. The rub, however, is that the landing fee hits not only visitors to Germany but passengers in transit.

The action touched off a storm of protest but at this writing (July) the West German airports are sticking to their guns despite the threat of a partial boycott by American and other international airlines.

A spokesman for the Board of Airlines Representatives in Germany (BARIG) said it was a violation of International Civil Aviation Organization (ICAO) agreements, signed by West Germany "banning charges for transit passengers."

"What's more, it is blatantly unfair," he added. "Why should a man flying from London to Tehran, for instance, have to pay extra just because his plane stopped in between at Frankfurt?"

2nd Annual Intra-City Swim Meet On Aug. 20

The Newton Recreation Department has announced plans for the Second Annual Intra-City Swim Meet.

The meet will be held at the Harry Gath Memorial Pool, Wednesday, August 20, 6 p.m.

8 p.m. and awards will be given to the first, second and third place.

Registration will be now through August 14. When the child signs-up, he will be timed for his event so that he may be placed in the proper heat of each event.

The competition will be for both boys and girls who have Newton Recreation swim permits. However, there will be a limit of 3 events per contestant.

The following are the scheduled events:

8 and under, 25 yard crawl; 10 and under, 25-yard crawl; 12 and under, 50-yard crawl; 12 and under, 50-yard backstroke; 14 and under, 50-yard crawl; 14 and under, 50-yard backstroke.

Just what many housewives have been waiting for to pep up summer appetites — a good supply of native peppers to spice a very healthy list of "best buys" in native produce announced by the Massachusetts Dept. of Agriculture. Next week's list will be bolstered by the arrival of eggplant, the tasty versatile favorite.

While several dozen vegetables are excellent buys, none offer homemakers more for the money this than do several types of native cabbage, squash and lettuce.

Green, Chinese, red and Savoy cabbage are all plentiful and low priced, as are Boston, Bibb, iceberg, Romaine and Salad Bowl lettuce.

Both zucchini and yellow summer squash are in heavy supply and economical as are green beans, chicory and carrots.

Protests by shipping lines which fly into West Germany have succeeded in getting Jamaica to drop its plan for a flat $2.50 tax on all cruise passengers. However, passengers must pay a head tax depending on their length of stay: $1.25 for less than 24 hours; $2.00 for more than 24 but less than 48 hours; and $2.50 for more than 48 hours. There is a $2.50 air departure tax in effect, too, and a 3 percent tax on hotel room bills became effective July 1.

Practically the only bright spot recently was the reduction by France, from $5 to $3, of airport departure tax on most international flights.

Low Budget Affair SAN JUAN, P.R. (UPI) — Amilcar Tirado's low budget film did not include enough funds for him to pick up his special award at the Job Film awards banquet in New York City.

So those who worked with him on the film, "Indian Heritage," produced for the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, chipped in and bought the producer a round trip ticket.

The competition was sponsored by the American Foundation on Automation and Employment to encourage greater production and distribution of films dealing with the socio-economic problems of minority groups.

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — The credit card, once the province of the expense account crowd, has found its way into the university.

Since June 1, the University of California has been accepting credit cards for payment of extension courses.

Former Local Banker Given
Miami Office

The newest addition to the ranks of officers at the Peoples Group of National Banks serving North Dade County is an oldtimer from the field of New England banking.

He is Francis L. Buswell, 72, recently elected an assistant vice-president at the Peoples First National Bank of North Miami Beach. During the last 18 of his 52 years in New England banking, he was assistant treasurer in charge of savings and mortgage loans with the B.M.C. Durfee Trust Co. at Fall River.

Buswell was graduated from the Rutgers School of Banking at Rutgers University, and started his professional career when he joined the Lincoln Trust Co. at Boston in 1914. In subsequent moves, he was associated with the Home Savings Bank of Boston, and treasurer of the Newton Savings Bank at Newton before joining Durfee Trust.

Looking back over his long career in New England banking, Buswell remembers that "I never lost a day's work or a day's pay for 52 years, and I can certainly recommend banking as an occupation for the young men coming on in this generation."

citizens' confidence in our governmental processes."

She also told Sprague that Mayor Basbas' letter of recommendation dated June 24 and approving the DiCarlo petition, "supposedly based upon the public hearing of June 12, is open to serious question."

He pointed out that the only person to speak in favor of the petition "was the petitioner himself — Mario DiCarlo." He said that many people spoke against the petition, "specifically citing instances of water damage caused by already filling part of the pond."

Shea said that in itself was a past violation of law because DiCarlo failed to obtain a permit.

The young Representative, who is also a member of the Board of Aldermen, said that for Mayor Basbas to "come up with a favorable recommendation based upon that public hearing seems ludicrous and insulting to those citizens, both from the neighborhood and throughout the city, who sought to protect their interests by participating in the hearing."

Shea questioned how Mayor Basbas, whom he termed a close political associate of Mr. DiCarlo, could presume to be able to judge impartially and pass upon Mr. DiCarlo's petition.

He said DiCarlo is Basbas' most recent reappointee to the Redevelopment Authority and its chairman. Adding, "to my knowledge he has received at least $73,000 from the City of Newton in sand and snow removal contracts so far this year. In addition, he has served repeatedly as a fund raiser and campaign worker for Mayor Basbas. In a court of law, such an individual as Mayor Basbas would never have been allowed to pass judgment upon such a close associate of Chairman DiCarlo."

Kiwanis Family Reunion Sunday

Members of the Roslindale-West Roxbury Kiwanis Club will take an active part in promoting the second annual observation of Family Reunion Day, here next Sunday, August 10. Complete plans were finalized at last week's meeting and respective committee chairman reports outlined to the club members.

Family Reunion Day program is being sponsored jointly by Kiwanis International and Freedoms Foundation of Valley Forge. It will mark the second joint observance of the event and this year's participation by local families is expected to exceed those of last year.

The purpose, according to Club President Davis, is to dramatize the family as the keystone of the nation's strength and morality, and basic unit of society.

Local families are being encouraged to plan old-fashioned family get-togethers, go to church as a family group, or special church observances; have picnics or dinners together; to become better acquainted; to get the family "up to date" on addresses, birthdays, anniversaries; to arrange patriotic activities; to familiarize young members of the family with sacred historical documents; and to emphasize the role of children as heirs and political leaders of the future.

President Davis appointed three members, each with a record of activity and accomplishment, to head respective committees. These men were named several weeks ago and made their respective final reports at last week's meeting.

Rev. Carl M. Zorn, chairman of the club's Support of Churches Committee, has promoted the church attendance aspect of the day. All clergy of the community have been asked to support Kiwanis in this endeavor with special bulletin notices from the pulpit. A special blessing for the occasion has been composed by the Chaplain of the United States House of Representatives. This may be included in the bulletins or read at other occasions.

This week's Kiwanis meeting will be devoted to Family Reunion Day, with Rev. Ralph Zorn, a pastor in West Germany, as guest speaker. He is now in Roslindale observing a family reunion with his parents, and sister and her husband and family from Panama. He will speak on the role of the family in society, and the strength it provides.

Captain Richard D. Chausse, chairman of the club's Community Relations committee, reported on his success in promoting active membership participation and to have each member become personally involved. He has also contacted other community and civic organizations and urged them to become interested. These organizations include men's and women's service groups, youth groups and veterans groups, labor organizations, professional societies and the like.

The Mayor's Proclamation reads:

WHEREAS: The family is the keystone of our nation's strength, the basis of a stable society, and chief deterrent to lawlessness, disorder, corruption and moral laxity; and

WHEREAS: The structure of today's society is such that family members are highly mobile and frequently separated; and

WHEREAS: Sharing family experiences and memories, planning for the family's future, and maintaining continued family contact are essential for our people; and

WHEREAS: Kiwanis International and the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge have developed ideas and programs to dramatize the family and its vital role, thereby strengthening our city and our nation;

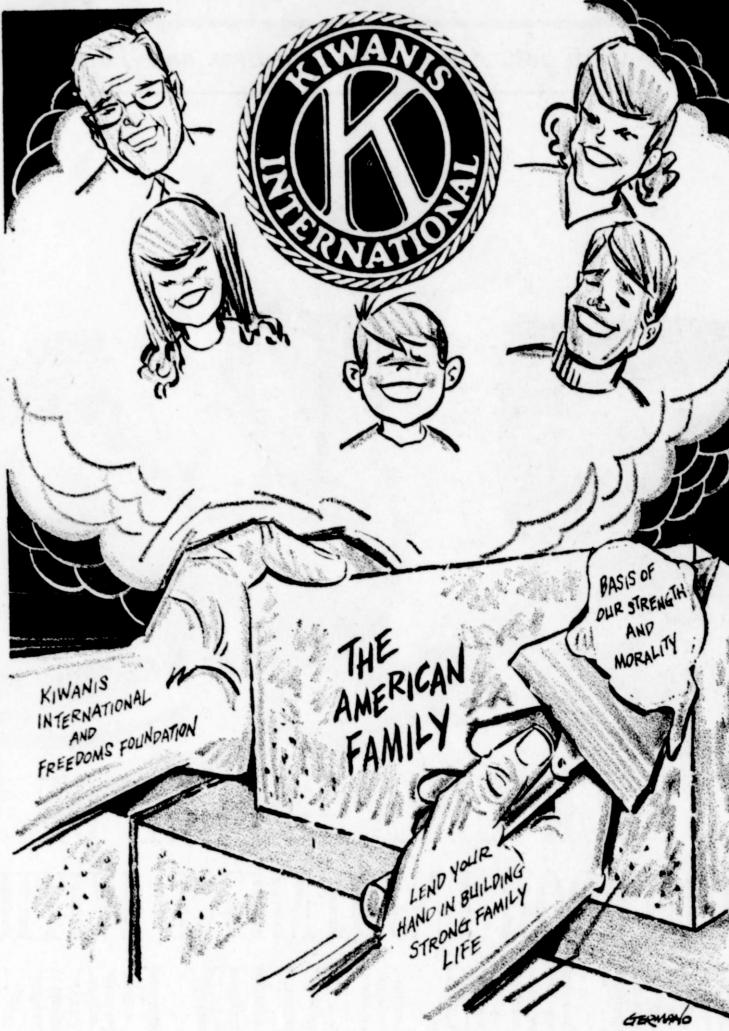

NOW THEREFORE, I, KEVIN H. WHITE, Mayor of the City of Boston do hereby proclaim Sunday, August 10 as FAMILY REUNION DAY, and I call upon my fellow citizens to set aside this day for family activities, picnics, reunions, dinners and similar activities designed to dramatize the family as the basis of all that is good across our land today.

Cruising Teleprinters

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — The Jefferson County Police Department has applied for federal funds for miniature teleprinters to be installed in police cruisers.

The teleprinters would enable officers to receive printed messages, in addition to the present police radio message. They also would permit the sending of messages to police officers, even if they are away from their vehicles temporarily. Spokesmen said the printed messages would provide "message security" since the teleprinter cannot be monitored.

Mature and Aware

"Students today," he said, "are contrary to the impression we often get, are the most mature, aware, sophisticated group of young people the country has ever turned out. I'm not talking about the campus militants—they are less than five percent of the total."

"The student population's values are different from those of their parents, or even from my generation. Students now are more concerned with human values, they believe profits are not an end in themselves but a means toward creating a better social world."

"They are not motivated or impressed by position and titles. Like, to be a vice president is not as important as to have a life that is meaningful and purposeful. They want to do, not just to be."

Randell, looking every inch the successful young executive in blue pin-striped suit with vest, rust and black tie and rust silk pocket handkerchief, also drew a word picture of the more material side of today's youth. He said:

"The average male student envisions himself on graduation as living in New York City in a glamorous apartment, dating models at expensive restaurants, driving expensive sports cars, taking two week trips to Tahiti, Paradise Island and Nairobi. His job holds great responsibility with a fast-growing firm and will enable him to become a millionaire within two or three years."

Japanese Problem

TOKYO (UPI) — The most important problem faced by Japan's economy is the fact that the nation's Gross National Product (GNP) is third highest in the world while per capita income is far down the list in 21st place, according to Shigeo Horie, former president and chairman of the Bank of Tokyo.

"We will have to narrow that gap, but that's easier said than done," says Horie. "It may take from five to seven years."

Challenges Legal Ruling On Officer's Study Time

A legal ruling that Newton achievement. The resolution can't allow Patrolman Donald also calls upon the Mayor and R. McArdle 15 hours time off Police Chief William F. Quinn a week to study for a to take all possible action to Bachelor of Arts degree at aid McArdle in his pursuit of a Boston State College, was degree.

term "wrong" this week by Rep. H. James Shea, Jr.

McArdle, a veteran of 10 years on the Newton police force, placed first and won a full scholarship in a competition with 800 officers from all over the Commonwealth.

Acting City Solicitor Charles Morang in a legal decision has said that McArdle cannot be granted the 15 hours a week ~~to~~ to pursue his studies at the college.

Shea pointed out that at present there are 25 officers in the City of Boston who have been granted 15 hours off week to study for degrees under the same program. He said that perhaps 50 Boston policemen will be in the program next year.

In Boston, the student-patrolmen work 25 hours a week and get 15 hours off for which they are compensated — in order to study for a degree.

It is Shea's contention that it is legal for the arrangement to be made by the Boston Police Department for 25 officers, then it is certainly legal for Newton to do the same for only one officer — especially if that officer came out tops in the state and is a veteran of 10 years on the force."

Shea has drawn up a resolution which he will submit at the next Board of Aldermen meeting, Monday, August 18, Officer McArdle in his taking in which the Board commends full advantage of this full tuition scholarship for his son.

Black Committee Will Disperse $174,876 From Mission Funds

A 15-man committee, composed entirely of United Church of Christ black persons, is being formed to have final authority in disbursing $174,876 from funds now being received by the Massachusetts Conference of the United Church of Christ in its Mission Advance fund-raising program.

The conference Board of Directors recently voted to place the final word on spending the money in the section designated in the two-million dollar fund-raising program as "crisis fund for use in cities" at the disposal of the black committee.

In voting to establish the new committee the Board's official minutes noted it recognized "that the most crucial problem in our cities is the unjust treatment of black people and recognizing the need for repentance and restitution on the part of white Christians, this Ad Hoc Committee is created in order that the crisis fund for use in cities may be spent in the most meaningful way."

The committee, which will have equal representation from the geographical areas of the Commonwealth, is free to enlist five additional voting or non-voting members who may not necessarily be black or members of the United Church of Christ. One of the 15 members of the committee of black United Church people shall be elected by the committee to serve as its treasurer.

According to the Director's action, the conference shall disburse to the committee $10,000 every three months beginning in October of this year, and the board also indicated in its action that it is open to changing this rate of disbursement from time to time.

The committee, which will be appointed by the Board of Directors probably in September, currently is being sought by five persons, all black, charged by the Directors with this responsibility.

Members of this group are Dr. Wade Kornegay, Waltham; and Clifford Clarkson, Longmeadow, both members of the Board of Directors; Rev. George Thomas, conference minister of church and community, Newton; and Rev. James Breden, an Episcopal priest from Roxbury and the only non-UCC member of the group.

Rev. Paul C. Clayton, pastor of the Second Congregational Church in Beverly and chairman of the conference Board of Directors, explained the reasons for appointing the committee of black churchmen.

He said: "The purpose for taking the action is that the crisis in the cities can best be met by policy decisions which are made by those who share the life of the city and its problems. The core of the burden is borne by the black man in the inner city. It is obvious that black persons are best able to determine how money designated for dealing with urban problems is to be spent."

"It is for these reasons that the black United Churchmen will be responsible for determining how $174,000 of Mission Advance money, which has been earmarked for the city, will be spent."

Newton Solons Urge Elderly To Register For Fare Cards

Today Newton State Representatives Shea, Fishman, Malloy and Mann again urged residents of Newton over 65 to register with the M.B.T.A. to be eligible for reduced fares. To secure the reduced fares, elderly citizens must obtain an identification card by registering with the M.B.T.A. and show proof of age by such documents as a birth certificate, driver's license or Medicare card and proof of residency by a driver's license, I.

It is easy, uncomplicated, similar to the automobile driver's license renewal procedure used by the Registry of Motor Vehicles, and should take only a few minutes; that the reduced fare will be at most one half the adult fare and will be effective on and after August 15; and that Newton's elderly citizens than Newton; that the registration procedure

Lincoln Sees Need For Men Of Competency

The need to elect competent men and women to serve on the City's Charter Commission was stressed today by Newton's GOP Chairman, William A. Lincoln.

As a result of the successful signature drive which Newton Republicans supported in conjunction with major civic groups led by the League of Women Voters, the question of Charter Review will be on the November ballot, Lincoln noted.

Voters will also be called upon to elect the membership of a Charter Commission which would review the city charter and make its recommendations if it is so voted.

Observing that "Newton has been fortunate in enjoying good local government for many years primarily because men and women of ability have given dedicated service to our community", Lincoln expressed confidence that the tradition of such focused on the major legal problems facing the nation: air and water pollution, neglect of civil rights, unwanted financial manipulation, sloppy medical care, faulty design of manufactured products and misuse of pesticides and drugs.

SAVAGE FIGHTING RAGES NORTHWEST OF SAIGON

U.S. AND SOUTH VIETNAMESE infantrymen backed by tanks, gunships and artillery, battled North Vietnamese troops Wednesday in daylong fighting that raged across a plantation northwest of Saigon. The fighting continued into the night or a battlefield illuminated by flares. At least 79 North Vietnamese troops were reported killed by nightfall in the heavy fighting just south of Loc Ninh, 68 miles from Saigon. Two soldiers of the U.S. 11th Armored Cavalry were killed and six wounded, U.S. military officials said. To the north, a U.S. Marine battalion commander and five other marines were killed in the fighting with North Vietnamese forces near Da Nang. Spokesmen said at least 30 North Vietnamese troops died in the battle.

300 HURT AS POLICE CHARGE INTO LONDONDERRY RIOTERS

POLICE, wearing gas masks, charged into a crowd of rioters in Northern Ireland, Wednesday, and established a tiny foothold in the Roman Catholic Bogside bastion outside the ancient walls of Londonderry. Fire blazed all around as fatigued police, weary from 24 hours of continuous fighting, fought house-to-house for control of the area. About 300 persons, including 92 policemen, were injured. Some 300 British soldiers stood by at the Sea Eagle Naval School on the outskirts of Londonderry. Rioting Catholics countered the police by setting up new barricades in the streets and loosing a fusillade of gas line bombs that were hurled into police ranks from the roofs of burning buildings. The police retaliated by lobbing tear gas into the frenzied crowds.

ISRAELI, JORDANIAN FORCES BATTLE ACROSS JORDAN RIVER

ISRAELI and Jordanian forces battled for hours Wednesday with planes, artillery and tanks across the Jordan River cease-fire line and Israel reported another Arab attack on border settlements from Lebanese territory. An official spokesman in Beirut, however, denied the Israeli charge and said it was obviously designed to influence debate at the U.N. Security Council in New York. The council is meeting on a Lebanese complaint against Israeli air raids on Monday.

RUSSIAN, CHINESE TROOPS BATTLE ON SINO-SOVIET BORDER

HUNDREDS of Russian and Red Chinese troops battled Wednesday on the Sino-Soviet border with both sides reporting casualties in what appeared to be the most serious clash between the two feuding major Communist powers since last spring. Each side blamed the other for triggering the fighting on the Sinkiang-Kazakhstan border, less than 500 miles north of Red China's main nuclear test center. Each also warned the other of the "serious consequences" which could result from such provocations. The accusations and warnings came in formal notes exchanged between the Soviet and Chinese governments at their embassies in Moscow and Peking.

MILLIONS TURN OUT TO WELCOME FIRST MEN ON THE MOON

MILLION OF AMERICANS turned out in New York and Chicago Wednesday to give their personal welcome to the first men on the moon. The tumultuous day was climaxed by President Nixon's "dinner of the century" in Los Angeles honoring the Apollo II astronauts. One of the most glittering array of notables in modern history gathered for the dinner fetting moon travelers Neil A. Armstrong, Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. and Michael Collins. More than two million New Yorkers crowded the concrete canyons of the largest city and swept through police barricades to get a glimpse of the trio. After New York, they traveled to Chicago, which also welcomed the astronauts with a boisterous parade where more than one million persons were on hand before they flew to Los Angeles and the finale of their big day. The 1,600 guests at Nixon's gala dinner were the cream of the worlds of science, politics and diplomacy. Millions of Americans watched the celebration at home on their television sets.

ELDERLY COUPLE PERISHES IN CHRISTMAS COVE BLAZE

AN ELDERLY COUPLE tentatively identified as a well-known scholar and his wife died Wednesday in a cottage fire in Christmas Cove, Maine. The dead were believed to be philosophy professor-emeritus Theodore Meyer Greene, 72, a cripple, and his wife, Elizabeth. Police said the bodies were too badly charred for positive identification. Only a chimney remained standing after the blaze roared through the one and one-half story dwelling on East Road overlooking John's Bay. The Greenes, who lived in New Haven, Conn., had occupied the cottage for a week. Greene taught for 22 years at Princeton where he was McCosh professor of philosophy and chairman of the division program in humanities. He was the holder of several honorary degrees.

NIXON PROPOSES GIVING STATES AND CITIES SHARE OF REVENUES

PRESIDENT NIXON sent to Congress Wednesday a controversial plan to give states and cities a share of federal tax revenues with no strings attached. The revolutionary tax proposal could encourage states to raise their own tax rates in order to receive a larger share of federal money. The plan would give the states and local governments, to use in any way they wish, a share of federal tax revenues based on a state's population and the amount of tax money it raised itself.

NIXON CHOOSES JUDGE HAYNESWORTH FOR SUPREME COURT

PRESIDENT NIXON has chosen U.S. Appeals Judge Clement F. Haynesworth Jr., a South Carolina Democrat, to be a Supreme Court justice. Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen said Wednesday. Dirksen told newsmen the selection of Haynesworth was certain "barring a radical change of signals." The GOP leader said the nomination would be announced today, but White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler denied the time element of Dirksen's statement. He said it would be made late this week or early next week.

17 PHONE CALLS BILLED TO SEN. KENNEDY WHILE IN 'SHOCK'

SEVENTEEN TELEPHONE calls were billed to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's credit card at about the time he said he was in shock following his fatal auto wreck, but none of the calls was to police or other authorities, it was reported Wednesday. Kennedy reported the crash which took the life of Mary Jo Kopechne at about 10 a.m. July 19, some nine hours after the accident on Chappaquiddick Island. Kennedy first said he reported the mishap when he came out of shock and "fully realized" what happened, but said later he notified police after failing to reach his attorney. An inquest is set for Sept. 3 to investigate the circumstances surrounding the accident which took place when Kennedy and Miss Kopechne left a cookout at about 11:15 p.m., July 18, and he headed for the ferry to Martha's Vineyard. A check of telephone records showed five calls were made after midnight and charged to Kennedy's credit card from the cottage where the reunion was held, and a dozen were made after midnight and charged to the senator from the motel where Kennedy was registered. None of the calls indicate an attempt to call police, fire and Coast Guard officials, according to a report published in the Manchester, N.H. Union Leader. Telephone officials noted that although the calls were charged to Kennedy's account, it does not mean he made them and there is no way to check who made the calls.

Rep. Theodore D. Mann is urging the MBTA to experiment with bus service running from the Oak Hill area to Boston via Route 128 and the Mass. Turnpike Extension.

Rep. Mann, who has been working to improve public transportation in the area, believes that this new service would reduce congestion at Newton Centre and Newton Corner and at the same time would give residents of the south side of the city better and faster transportation into Boston.

He made the recommendations as a member of the Mayor's Advisory Board on Public Transportation.

Mayor Kevin White Prepares Drive For The Governorship

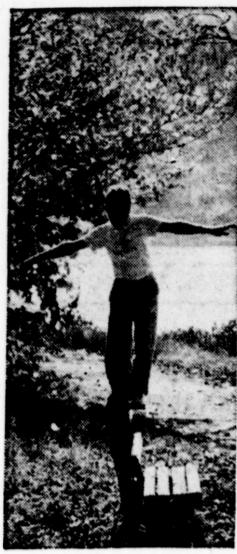

The last Mayor of Boston to win promotion to higher office was the late Maurice J. Tobin who was elected Governor in 1944 after heading the capital city's government for seven years.

That was near the end of World War II when the job of Mayor of Boston wasn't as tough as it is today although in Tobin's opinion it was tough enough.

Ironically, Tobin was swept out of office in 1946 by a surging Republican tide, born of public resentment over post-war rationing, which rolled across the nation.

John Hynes was a sort of non-political Mayor who was immersed in the duties and responsibilities of his own job and was not interested in running for any other office.

Highways No Place To Ride That Mini-Bike

It has been brought to the attention of Registrar McLaughlin that in some communities youngsters are acquiring, and in some instances, are operating minibikes on the ways of the Commonwealth. The Registrar points out that this new fad is in violation of the law outlined as follows:

By statute (Ch. 90 Sec. 1 M.G.L.) Mini-bikes are motorcycles and must be registered if operated on the ways of the Commonwealth.

Sec. 2 of the same chapter provides that if the Registrar shall determine a motor vehicle to be unsafe or improperly equipped, he may refuse to register it.

Under the authority of Sec. 2 the Registrar has ruled that minibikes are unsafe and improperly equipped and has refused to register them, consequently they cannot be operated, pushed, drawn or towed upon, or to remain upon any way.

The Registrar urges any parents whose young ones have access to a mini-bike to make a sincere and serious effort to prevent their being operated in violation of the law, having in mind the safety of the public and the hazards of such an illegal act.

Mrs. Harvey Chansky, Community Clinical Nurse, chairman of the local chapter opened last fall for pre-school of the Greater Boston aged retarded children of the Association for Retarded Children, announces that the establishment of a Mayor Monte G. Basbas will again be serving as honorary chairman for the fund drive for those persons more severely handicapped and unable to participate in the available nursery or special educational programs of this area.

Letters are being mailed to persons throughout the city asking for their support.

The local chapter contributes to the operation of the Mrs. Fitch will participate in the 28th annual Bellamy Flag Award Presentation to the Commonwealth of Massachusetts at Holyoke High School October 8-10, 1969. She will introduce Dr. Miller on the program.

The educational secretary serves at the Davis Elementary School in Newton. She has been with the Newton Public Schools since 1949 and recently left the Bethesda Elementary School after 16 years there.

He joined the staff of "Together Magazine," official family magazine of the United Methodist Church, in 1957.

He became associate editor in 1959, executive editor in 1960 and editor in 1964.

He is a member of Sigma Delta Chi, national journalism society; is a former chairman of the Awards Committee of the Associated Church Press and a former lecturer at the Medill School of Journalism.

He is married to the former Jo Ann Murphy of Westerville, Ohio, and the couple has two children, a son, David, 9, and a daughter, Mary Kay, 3. The Underwoods live in West Newton.

Welfare-

Lincoln went on to state that:

President Nixon's proposals present an enlightened and positive alternative to the debilitating influences of the present welfare system which has persisted for too many years.

In making his proposals the President demonstrated his courage in getting at the fundamentals, and his concern for the good of all the people.

As a result of his recommendations we can hopefully look to steps that will ultimately bring better living to every community in the country, our city of Newton included.

The Chairman indicated that the local Republican groups will intensify efforts to improve communications with voters so that the message of the Republican program will get through.

As Republicans working at the local level, in the wards and precincts, we naturally take great pride in the direction of the Administration and the course it is taking in both domestic and international affairs.

We feel that increasing numbers are joining us in this sentiment and we are optimistic about augmenting the number of those enrolled in the party.

At last week's Executive Meeting, Lincoln disclosed, steps were taken to enlarge the informational program of the Newton GOP. Ward Chairmen are being alerted to early meetings in September so that the program may get underway.

To meet the funding needs of this program, the GOP Finance Committee headed by Charles E. Aucoin is developing plans for the "Annual Loyalty" campaign directed to members of the City Committee. The campaign is expected to get off the ground in September, Lincoln said.

The Yankee Division was ordered on a large scale maneuver to South Carolina in September, 1941.

Another Alderman Opposes Tree Farm

Opposition continued to mount this week to the establishment of a "Christmas tree farm" on wet lands around the Dolan Pond - Webster pk. area in West Newton.

Ald. William Matthews, of Ward 4, joined three other members of the Aldermanic Board in speaking out against the proposal of Mario DiCarlo to fill the land and use it to grow Christmas trees.

DiCarlo is president of DiCarlo Brothers Construction Co., chairman of the Newton Redevelopment Authority and co-chairman of Mayor Monte G. Basbas' re-election campaign.

DiCarlo has applied to the State Department of taken from it in 1962 when the highway was constructed. Members seek to build a replacement for their 90 year old church.

Basbas said the $77,500 figure was based on an appraisal he had made.

The land in question is located on the south side of the Massachusetts Turnpike in West Newton, with access at the junction of Crescent and Robinhood Streets.

The money would come from the city's surplus account.

The board approved the authorization by a 13-0 vote with a bare quorum present at the special meeting called last Friday by Mayor Basbas.

The mayor has suggested that a portion of the land be sold to the church for its construction purposes, and that a portion of the site be used for low income housing. The price of the land which would be sold to the church has not been designated.

The Turnpike Authority paid the Myrtle Baptist Church $10,000 for the more than 16,000 square foot piece of property it took from them in 1962.

Alderman Matthew Jefferson questioned whether some commitment might be arrived at to insure sale of the land by the city to the church if the negotiations with the Turnpike Authority prove successful.

He said that though he knows the present Board of Aldermen favors the proposition, if the action is delayed for some reason, it may not be favored by a new Board of Aldermen which will take office in January.

Mayor Basbas suggested that if no action is forthcoming in terms of sale of the land to the church before the year ends, a resolution might be passed by this board urging the new one to consider the matter favorably.

Service-

Many commented that if such trial service proves successful we could perhaps make further improvements in terms of a circumferential bus route with several stops enroute from Newton to Boston, and return.

According to Rep. Mann, the City of Newton does not receive the kind of transportation assistance it should be getting under the proposals of the "Recommended Highway and Transit Plan for the Eastern Massachusetts Region," sponsored by the State Department of Public Works.

Mann expressed confidence that local officials share this same opinion and that they will continue to work with the Department of Public Works, the MBTA, and the Middlesex Street Railway Company for the improvement and expansion of Newton's public transportation.

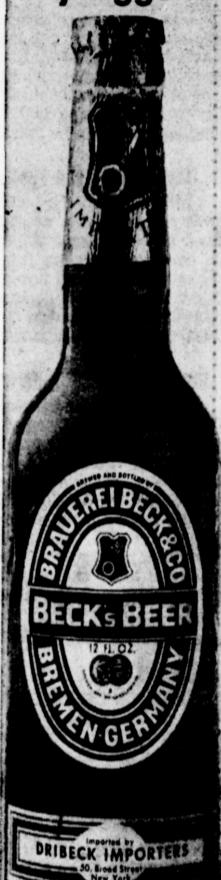

The Yankee Division was ordered on a large scale maneuver to South Carolina in September, 1941.

Superstitions that have gone out the window — that it is bad luck to try on or wear briefly the wedding ring before the actual ceremony. More sensible is for each party to try on the rings, slipping them on and off to make sure this can be done quickly and easily at the wedding.

The Berklee School of Music, Boston, Massachusetts, an International College for the Study of Modern American Music, has enrolled Howard Goldstein, age 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goldstein of 35 Cherry St., Newton, in its Freshman Class of 1969-70.

Diet Workshop Area Directors Annual Meeting

The Diet Workshop, a nationally franchised company with headquarters in Newton Corner, recently held the first annual meeting of their Area Directors, as well as their company operators.

The primary aim of this first conference was to exchange information and to acquaint franchisees with one another, thereby multiplying their knowledge and to amplify the original training program with a two day agenda which left no time for sneak eating.

One of the highlights of the conference was an address by Morton B. Glenn, M.D., Nutritional Consultant to the Diet Workshop. Dr. Glenn explained why some people fail on most rigid diet regimes and told how The Diet Workshop may help to solve these problems.

Lois Lindauer, Director of The Diet Workshop, announced plans for a new franchise sales program designed to rapidly expand national activities while helping members to reduce.

Mountain Wind Causes Injury

To Rabbi Orent

Rabbi Joel Orent, 39, of Chestnut Hill, was rescued from a glacier in the Grand Teton Mountains Tuesday after a gust of wind picked him up and threw him against a rock, the United Press International reported from Jackson, Wyoming.

Rabbi Orent was brought by helicopter to a Jackson hospital where he was treated for a broken leg. The accident occurred in the morning when Rabbi Orent was on a guided climb in the Tetons about 20 miles north of the resort town of Jackson.

Strong winds, gusting to 60 miles per hour forced the party, including 17 Grand Teton National Park Rangers, back to a base hut.

"A gust of wind literally picked up the man and threw him against a rock," a park ranger said. He added the rabbi weighs about 200 pounds.

Rabbi Orent was moved down from the 11,500 foot glacier by litter for 1,000 feet before a helicopter was called to complete the rescue.

Skinner, Repulsed Thrice, Has Nomination Withdrawn

According to the request of Walter Jay Skinner to drop the issue, Governor Francis W. Sargent will not resubmit the name of the Newton attorney to the Executive Council for confirmation as an associate justice of the Superior Court.

Skinner's request to drop the issue was made in a letter to the governor dated Aug. 11. "I respect his wishes," Sargent said.

The heavily Democratic council three times refused to approve the Republican governor's appointment of Skinner to the bench, largely basing its argument on Skinner's role in investigations by the now defunct Massachusetts Crime Commission, which led to the 1965 conviction of three executive councillors on bribery charges.

Skinner was chief of the Criminal Division in the office of then-Atty. Gen. Edward W. Brooke during the Crime Commission investigations. Skinner spent an hour and 15 minutes being interviewed by the Executive Council July 8 after the first time his name was submitted for confirmation.

Skinner, a partner in the Boston law firm of Litner, McLaughlin, Skinner and Zonderman, said in his letter he was blamed by the council for prosecutions and investigations which took place "months and years after I left office in September 1965."

Councillor Patrick J. "Sonny" McDonough (D-Boston) led the attack on Skinner during the three council meetings.

Gov. Sargent said in a sharply worded statement Tuesday that the three rejections came "amid savage, scurillous attacks" on the part of the council, and he vowed to find another nom-

Appalling Statistics

Massachusetts set a new record for highway fatalities in the month of July. Eighty-nine persons died on the state's roads, 12 more than in any other July in history and 27 more than in that month last year.

Speeding and drinking were cited by Registry of Motor Vehicles statisticians as the major reasons for 41 deaths in the 74 accidents in which 89 persons lost their lives. At least Registry officials are convinced that drinking was the most common factor in the fatal accidents.

The fatalities were concentrated in the most populous counties, particularly Middlesex with 16 dead in 16 accidents, and in Barnstable where 13 persons died in six accidents. Norfolk County had 12 dead in nine accidents.

Of the 96 operators involved in the fatal accidents, 44 were under 25 years old. Since about one-fifth of licensed drivers in the Commonwealth are under 25, this means that young drivers accounted for about twice their share of the month's fatal accidents.

The fatal accidents were concentrated slightly on the weekends. Ten occurred Sunday, 7 on Monday, 12 on Tuesday, 10 on Wednesday, 9 on Thursday, 10 on Friday and 16 on Saturday. National statistics show that half of all the fatal accidents occur on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Registrar of Motor Vehicles Richard McLaughlin said that single-car crashes in the night-time hours almost invariably are caused by drunkenness, and 55 of July's fatal accidents were single-vehicle crashes. "We know more and more that intoxication is a factor," McLaughlin said.

New York and other states demand a blood test of the drivers in automobile fatalities but Massachusetts does not. Registrar McLaughlin would like to see the law go on the statute books of the Commonwealth. We agree. It would definitely pinpoint whether or not a driver was operating under the influence of liquor, barbituates, amphetamines or other drugs.

Meanwhile, as the mixture of drinking and driving appears to be the major reason for so many fatal accidents, we suggest a little temperance and a lot of common sense would slow the highway death rate.

Don't drive after drinking — period.

Aid To Consumers

The State Consumers' Council has struck a blow for the poor consumers and, incidentally, the overburdened mailman. Effective last Thursday, August 8, a consumer who receives in the mail unordered goods, wares or merchandise shall be entitled to dispose or use the same without any obligation to the sender.

In the past, consumers have been besieged by a volume of unrequested, unsolicited merchandise of various kinds. The law that was in effect up until last Thursday imposed a burden on the recipient to either, (1) purchase the item, (2) return the same at some inconvenience and/or expense, (3) store the merchandise for future pickup.

Since the goods were not requested in the first place, the failure to return the goods usually resulted in the recipient being billed and dunned for payment and sometimes an unfavorable report to a Credit Bureau which might impair the recipient's credit.

The new law, passed by this session of the Legislature, will strengthen the existing common law on contracts. It puts mail order companies "on notice" that recovery of the merchandise or payment for it will be barred to the firms sending the unordered goods by providing a complete statutory defense to the consumer receiving such unsolicited merchandise.

Chalk up one for the Consumers' Council.

Fidurko Named Sales Manager In N.Y. Office

William J. Fidurko, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fidurko, 907 Homer St., Olean, N. Y., has been named an associate sales engineer at the New York City sales office of The Babcock & Wilcox Company's power generation division. It was announced by G. S. White, northeast regional sales manager.

A 1959 graduate of Olean High School, Fidurko is a cum laude graduate of the University of Detroit with a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering. He joined Babcock & Wilcox as a student engineer in 1965 after doing graduate work at Massachusetts Institute of Technology. For the past four years Fidurko has been a service engineer in the firm's Boston district.

Fidurko is married to the former Diane Kaloyanides, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Basil Kaloyanides, 36 Buswell Park, Newton.

Mr. and Mrs. Fidurko, and their two month old son, will soon move from their residence at 879 Lexington St., Waltham, to the New York City area.

I am writing to you both as a resident of Auburndale and as someone with expert knowledge of the problems of health care in connection with the recently announced plan for moving Lahey Clinic into the present location of Woodland Golf Club. I wish to submit for your consideration the following points relative to this plan:

(1) The studies on the utilization of medical facilities clearly indicate that the resident of Newton do not use with any kind of regular frequency the facilities of Lahey Clinic and do not need any additional medical facilities within their city. Lahey Clinic does not provide the kind of service that Newtonites can be expected to use after a move to Woodland Golf Club.

(2) As all the experiences from the urban areas of the country indicate, the establishment of a hospital or any other major medical institution in a residential neighborhood leads to an immediate deterioration of the neighborhood and a rapid devaluation of land and other property. It is matter of common observation that the big hospitals of our cities are located in undesirable slum areas. Thus, the move of a hospital into Woodland Golf Club would result in tremendous losses for the property owners in Newton, would prompt many of them to leave their present properties, and rapidly change the ecological structure of Auburndale and Wellesley.

(3) It seems to me that there is a very clear national trend, partly supported by legal decisions, that the establishment of any new hospital (or relocation of an old one) can be done only in conformity with urban planning and development and any new institution can be located only in those parts of a metropolitan area where the land use is, with the concurrence of the citizens, clearly designated for hospitals and related institutional purposes.

(4) Lahey Clinic is a private institution without medical school affiliation. The national trend in hospital development clearly indicates that this type of institutions is unable to keep up with the progress in medicine and the financial requirements of maintaining a hospital; consequently, it is going out of business. Accordingly, the local governments are forced by the existing circumstances to take over an increasing number of private medical institutions. Thus, I can well visualize the possibility that ten years from now the residents of Newton will have to appropriate sizeable sums in their city budget for the maintenance of the Lahey

Indict 4 For Newton Store Burglaries

The Middlesex County Grand Jury indicted a former Waltham policeman and three other men Tuesday on charges stemming from a year-long series of burglaries involving some $500,000 in cash and merchandise.

Authorities said the burglaries were in stores in Waltham, Newton and Stoneham.

John P. Driscoll, 31, father of four and a four-year member of the Waltham force, was indicted on 13 counts. Also indicted were John E. Connors, 32, of Waltham; Ronald Begin, 27, of Wellesley and Rubin Niddle, 54, of Boston.

Newton Psychologist Will Direct "Thirteenth Year"

Dr. Alan B. Sostek of 28 Turner Terrace, Newton, well known psychologist and former President of the Greater Boston Personnel and Guidance Directors, has left his post as Chairman of the Department of Rehabilitation Administration at Northeastern University to become Director of The Thirteenth Year, a new program of post high school education opening in Boston in September.

The Thirteenth Year will operate as a co-educational day program at 25 Huntington Ave., in Boston, and will provide a transitional year of development for "bright underachievers" who did not live up to their intellectual potential in high school.

Dr. Sostek is Professor of Psychology at Boston University. He was Past President of the Greater Boston Personnel and Guidance Association and a member of the National Guidance Association, Inc. Dr. Sostek is Chairman of the National Commission on Educational Development of the National Vocational Guidance Association, a member of the National Creative Education Foundation and the American Psychological Association.

LETTERS TO THE GRAPHIC

On Lahey Clinic

Clinic from which they do not derive any benefits.

(5) I am sure that the great majority of the citizens of Newton wish to avoid the grave contingencies attendant upon locating the Lahey Clinic at Woodland Golf Club or perhaps anywhere within the city limits. It is hardly necessary to point out that in the present state of federal support for hospital construction, and of the issues of accreditation and community representation on the hospital board, an opposition of the citizens could not augur a peaceful and undisturbed future for the Lahey Clinic in the Newton area.

In view of this situation I wish to request that the Lahey Clinic should reconsider its plan to move into the present Woodland Golf Club property and relocate in a suitable area where its future growth and development is warranted.

Your consideration given to these points will be appreciated.

Sincerely yours,
JOHN KOSA

Boston, Massachusetts

Dear Dr. Adams:

I am writing to you both as a resident of Auburndale and as someone with expert knowledge of the problems of health care in connection with the recently announced plan for moving Lahey Clinic into the present location of Woodland Golf Club.

If Donahue gets the convention nod, he will face another hard battle in the primary. But he may have a better chance of winning a primary than some political pundits seem to believe.

Donahue is strong in Western Massachusetts. He would have a lot of legislators out beating the drums for him. The people in the towns, especially the smaller ones, tend to vote in the primary for the convention choice.

Besides, all that, Donahue has a liberal legislative record which will attract some support. He also has a commanding knowledge of the State government.

Some observers think Francis X. Bellotti would have a fairly good chance of winning a four-way free-for-all struggle in which Kevin White, Maurice Donahue and Kenneth O'Donnell were his adversaries.

The conceivably might be the case. But Bellotti can't afford another losing fight. A defeat next year would be his last hurrah in politics.

He was defeated by John Volpe for the Governorship in 1964 and by Elliot Richardson for the Attorney General in 1966. Each clash left its scar upon him.

Bellotti almost surely will start off as a candidate for Governor and then conceivably could settle for the nomination for Lieutenant Governor if that opportunity arises.

About the only one who could not lower his sights and accept the nomination for Lieutenant Governor would be Kevin White. He will still be Mayor if he fails in his bid for the Governorship.

Kenneth O'Donnell does not figure to be as strong in the 1970 Democratic primary as he was in 1966 when he had the personal and financial backing of the late Robert F. Kennedy.

Greatest interest in the coming months probably will center on the campaigns of Mayor White and Senate President Maurice A. Donahue, two public figures who make news by virtue of the positions they hold.

A sharp difference of opinion exists among students of politics as to how strong a candidate Governor Sargent will be next year when he stands for the Governorship in his own right.

The estimates of Sargent's strength as a prospective candidate range all the way from the prediction that he will be unbeatable in 1970 to the forecast that he will be a pushover for any Democratic standard-bearer.

On the basis of past history and experience one factor definitely will militate against Sargent next year.

That is that the Republicans will have held the Governorship for six successive years when Sargent seeks the office.

Politics runs in cycles, and the people usually are ready for a change after one party has held the Governorship for six years.

On the other hand, Governor Sargent probably runs ahead of any of the Democratic candidates—even White—on the recognition factor in the Commonwealth as a whole. He is better known to the people than any of the Democrats he might face.

Out in the western stretches of the State, near the New York line, a lot of people still don't know Kevin White even though he did serve seven years as Secretary of State, an office which does not often draw the spotlight of public attention. They have heard of Sargent.

When former Mayor Collins ran for the U.S. Senate in 1966, it was astonishing to discover the number of persons in the far reaches of the State who at the start of the campaign, at least, didn't know who Collins was.

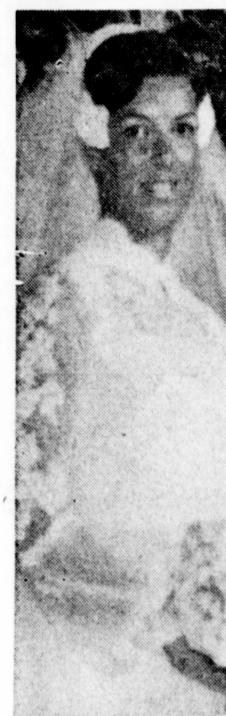

One thing Governor Sargent has done is to project an image of an unswerving, died-in-the-wool, down-the-line Republican.

Whether that is a mistake or not is a question the 1970 election returns will answer.

However, a candidate for Governor can't win on Republican votes alone. He must be able to draw some Democratic and Independent votes.

Oil production in Tulsa itself has been illegal since statehood days, but builders are constantly uncovering pre-statehood oil and gas wells.

One recent incident involved the Cities Service Oil Co.

The firm was building a multi-million dollar office building near downtown Tulsa when a warning came from Mrs. Lula Quinlan, retired newspaper woman, that a gas well was on the building site.

"I was afraid earth-moving equipment would hit the well and start a fire," she said. "I pestered Cities Service for three months before it happened."

What happened is that workers uncovered the remains of an old gas well.

Dewey Peterson, a Cities Service engineer, was assigned to plugging the well. He said it wasn't easy.

"Whenever the well was abandoned, a wooden plug was shoved down it," he said. "We had to drill through the plug and then fill it in about 400 feet with cement."

The couple will live in Cambridge.

Cameo Roles

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Former screen Tarzan Johnny Weismuller and Butterly McQueen (who played in "Gone With the Wind") were cast for cameo roles in "The Phynx" at Warner Bros.

The situation is not uncommon in Tulsa. Other buildings have been built over southeast of the University, oil and gas wells, including also a heavily populated area the Tulsa City - County now.

Tulsa Is Built Over Gas And Oil Wells

By DANIEL VAN CLEVE

TULSA, Okla. (UPI) — Tulsa is called the "oil capital of the world" because over two-thirds of its economy is based on petroleum.

"There are wells all over town," Mrs. Quinlan said. "But no one knows exactly where they are. No records were kept because that was before statehood."

Statehood came to the Oklahoma Territory in 1907 and about the same time folks began establishing city limits around Tulsa. Laws were passed making it illegal to drill within the city, but as the town grew from a few buildings to a metropolis, more and more former oil fields fell within the city limits.

Marion Cracraft, oil editor of the Tulsa Tribune, said Tulsa is sitting on top of one of the state's better oil deposits. "Anyone in town could go in his back yard and drill 2,500 feet and get good oil or gas," he said.

"Many water wells that were drilled in the area had to be abandoned because of oil and gas seeping into them."

Local historian and author Fannie Brownlee Misch remembers wells were drilled about 1912 on what is now the campus and surrounding area of the University of Tulsa, located about two miles east of downtown Tulsa. The campus now is surrounded by residential and apartment buildings.

She also recalls that a coal mine, the "Old Hickory," was located about three miles southeast of the University, oil and gas wells, including also a heavily populated area

the Tulsa City - County now.

Grand Day For Grandparents At Nursing Home

Many Newton area grandparents at the V. F. W. Parkway Nursing Home in West Roxbury enjoyed a party there to initiate a new national holiday to be known officially as Grand Day for Grandparents.

Held on the first Sunday in August, the celebration was under the direction of Mrs. Thelma Netzorg of 18 Peregrine Rd., Newton, Activity Director at the Home.

Original circus designed invitations were sent by the patient to their grandchildren and great grandchildren. Handmade name pins and most attractive animal pins for the children were distributed along with many other favors including fire-chief hats, balloons, animal puppets and lollipops.

Elaborate decorations in a circus motif were prepared for the gala occasion. A short musical program was held after which Gary Berman of Newton and his lovely assistant Sue Reinstein, gave an exciting professional magic performance. Mr. Berman is a student at Emerson College. The afternoon was climaxed with candy decorated cake, ice cream and punch served just such food.

She prides herself on never having cheated while losing weight because she took advantage of the good recipes offered to her on the program and even enjoyed improving some of them. She has graciously agreed to supervise the menu for the "Sail A-Weigh."

Other members of The Workshop who are also hard at work planning a good but non-fattening time for everyone are Mrs. Charlotte Cohen, chairman, of 50 Wiswall Rd., Newton Centre; Mrs. Lynn Fine of Medford; Mrs. June Hemphill of Watertown and Mrs. Evelyn McLean of Wilmington.

Anyone who is interested in joining a local group of The Diet Workshop may do so weekly at any of several locations in Newton. For details call 244-5847.

The previous practice of having all funds channelled through the Chief of Police is not only untrue but unlawful.

"Over $200,000 was paid out for details last year in Newton. The City is required to account for the collection and disbursement of these funds through the City Treasurer."

Basbas continued, "I want to make sure my men are protected in the event of injury while on paid detail. Unless they are on official duty their right to be compensated could be questioned."

"I am sure that when the men understand the purpose of the change they will support it wholeheartedly."

U.N.'s Black Diplomats React Various To N.Y.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.

(UPI) — One of the first questions a foreign visitor might ask the many black diplomats serving at United Nations headquarters in New York is, "How are you treated here?"

"It is a place that could break a man," was the reply given a UPI reporter by Moses Ihonde, attaché at the Nigerian mission to the United Nations.

"It is strange, because one is surrounded in New York by so many things that normally make a man happy."

Not all the United Nations' black Africans feel as does Ihonde about the racial attitudes of New Yorkers.

Some have experienced no family would be taking care of their problems in adapting to life in a new society, indicate it is an experience they b. myself, my white neighbors, who are nice to me, come and baby sit."

How does she like Americans? "They are good," she said. "If you are not shy and know how to express yourself, then they help you."

Discrimination? "We are the only blacks on this floor," Mrs. Akinola said, "but I don't see any difference."

Some Enthusiastic

Many of the diplomats questioned would do so only when it was agreed they would not be identified, for diplomatic reasons. One of these, a high-ranking member of his delegation, was enthusiastic about life in New York.

"Living in New York is very comfortable and I like the safety here," he said. "I like New York very much because of the variety found here and because of the material conveniences which American has so nicely perfected."

Discrimination Felt

Ihonde said that moving to a new apartment can be a frustrating experience. As he put it, "After my first lease expired, I decided to move to a nicer apartment. I came for an interview with a renting agent, who had assured me on the telephone that he had an availability. When he saw my black face, the rent suddenly catapulted. Other times I found that the apartment had suddenly been taken. Well, after two months I gave up and remained in my old place."

"I have felt hurt many times in New York. When a taxi stops for you and then suddenly drives on to the next corner and you see a white face step in, well, what is one to think?"

The problems of Mrs. Shadé Akinola, wife of a Nigerian consul officer, have differed somewhat from those of Ihonde.

Freeze Summer Vegetables For Off-Season Enjoyment

By PATRICIA S. FROMBERGER
Norfolk County Extension Service

Now that summer vegetables are in good supply and reasonably priced, the question of what to freeze and what not to freeze comes to mind. If you are lucky enough to have your own vegetable garden, you most certainly will want to preserve the "fruits of your labor" for some off-season enjoyment this winter.

Freezing is one of the simplest and least time-consuming ways to preserve foods at home. But not all vegetables are suitable for freezing. Those vegetables that do not make the result is a product of very complete instructions on poor quality — hardly worth the effort of freezing. Some of the favorites that do freeze well include tender greens, radishes, and squash can be frozen also, not tomatoes (except as juice or cooked). If you have doubts as to how well a fruit or vegetable will freeze, it is a good idea to test it before freezing large quantities. Freeze three or four packages and then sample the food after a few days. Keep in mind, however, that this will only show you the effects of freezing and not the effect of storage over a longer period.

Vegetables that do not make year at the Extension Service office. Blanching, promptly plunged into cold (heating in boiling water before freezing), is the most satisfactory home method for nearly all vegetables and is recommended by the U. S. Department of Agriculture and the University of Massachusetts. So the answer to this question is, yes.

An explanation as to why blanching is necessary will give you a better understanding of this important step. If you have ever had the experience of vegetables being frozen in the garden by cottage cheese, ice cream, an early frost, you know that the result is a product of very complete instructions on proper packaging and protecting. It would lack flavor, color and texture. The reason for these changes is the action of enzymes which takes place in the vegetable tissue.

However, if enzymes are destroyed prior to freezing, the fresh characteristics can be preserved. Since enzymes are destroyed by heat, this is easily accomplished in

FRESH Pears, Wheat Products, Onions, Peanuts and Peanut

Products, Fresh Limes, and Summer Vegetables.

Richard Betts Receives Award At ROTC Camp

Richard Kevin Betts, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Rickards Betts of 74 Fairmont Ave., Newton, has just received special recognition from his unit at ROTC summer camp.

A member of Company A, 8th Battalion, Betts was awarded a trophy for attaining the maximum score on the end-of-cycle proficiency test. The test covered topics presented during the summer camp, including first aid, military justice and courtesy, drill and ceremonies, individual tactics and bayonet.

This basic ROTC summer camp is unique in its concept of providing active-duty training in lieu of two years on-campus study, and completion of this six-week session has qualified Betts for entrance into advance ROTC program at Harvard.

US Gets Look At 'Hadrian VII' Canada Version

By JACK GAVER
UPI Drama Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — The United States will get its first extensive look at a production of Canada's highly esteemed Stratford Shakespearean Festival Foundation during the 1969-70 season.

The play is English Peter Luke's London-New York hit, "Hadrian VII," still current in New York. But it is the Stratford production, and not the New York one, that will make the long national tour, beginning Sept. 4 at the Shubert Theater in Chicago.

The Canadian version is playing all this month at the Avon Theatre in Stratford, Ont., which is the small downtown house of the Foundation whose major Shakespearean efforts are presented in the large arena-type auditorium on Stratford's outskirts.

This first commercial venture into the United States will return a percentage of the gross to the Stratford Festival people. The tour will be sponsored by Lester Osterman, who produced "Hadrian VII" on Broadway. The schedule calls for a 38-week trek.

Previously, Stratford's only venture beyond the border has been last March and April when its productions of "The Alchemist" and "Hamlet" were seen for brief engagements in Chicago and Ann Arbor, Mich. These visits were sponsored and not in the commercial vein.

While the Stratford cast will

$5,200 Goal For Kidney Disease Drive in Newton

Newton Representative H. James Shea has been appointed to the Subcommittee on Public Housing of the Joint House and Senate Urban Affairs Committee according to the announcement by Senator John J. Moakley.

The Subcommittee will conduct inquiries by the use of a questionnaire to be directed to all housing authorities.

The information gathered will assist the committee in considering important questions of tenant eligibility, tenant selection and the general need and supply of low income housing in the Commonwealth.

"This housing subcommittee's effectiveness will depend largely upon the quality of response to the housing questionnaire. We are also planning several follow up visits to interview authority members and directors, and some public hearings.

"We presently intend to conduct one of the public hearings on housing problems in the City of Newton," Rep. Sheila indicated. "The product of these efforts could be meaningful legislation in next year's session designed to improve the quality of housing in Massachusetts."

Representative Horton's bill is designed to provide needed training facilities, treatment centers, specialized professional personnel and even the costs of necessary equipment and supplies for patients to treat themselves in their own homes.

The local chief executive last month joined with the mayors of the 39 cities in Massachusetts in a Declaration of Independence Against Kidney Disease. Together they are sponsoring the Spirit of Sixty-Nine campaign, asking every citizen to contribute sixty-nine cents to them at City Hall, to save the lives of 200 Massachusetts victims of kidney disease who will die this year because they cannot get treatment on the artificial kidney machine.

The story in the Congressional Record referred to the case of a young Florida woman, "a victim of kidney failure, who lay unconscious in the hospital. She was denied the use of a machine that might save her life because she could not guarantee payment."

Representative Horton's remarks in the Congressional Record emphasized, "The citizens of the richest country in the world cannot stand by and see this happen. We can

500 SOLDIERS AID POLICE IN DISPERSING 20,000 CZECHS

FIVE HUNDRED helmeted Czechoslovak soldiers, armed with automatic carbines, moved into Prague's Wenceslas Square Wednesday night as riot police fought with tear gas, water cannons and night sticks to clear it of 20,000 angry, chanting demonstrators. The clashes between police and demonstrators began less than five hours after the first anniversary of the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia and raged through the center of the city into the night. Police lobbed scores of tear gas canisters into the crowd as it swelled from 10,000 during the evening to 20,000 and made repeated charges with their night sticks swinging. It was the first time soldiers had been used during the anniversary period other than as companions for policemen on their beats.

UN COUNCIL VOTES AGAINST ACTION IN NORTHERN IRELAND

THE UNITED NATIONS Security Council voted 150 not to take any action Wednesday to maintain a peace force in Northern Ireland. The council listened to the Irish Republic's complaint about British action in Northern Ireland but agreed with Britain that any action would be unwarranted interference in Britain's internal affairs. Meanwhile, British commanders barred Northern Ireland's Protestant reserve police force from riot control duty in a move to keep Catholic tempers cool. Military Protestants said the government had sold out to Britain and should resign. Premier James Chichester-Clark summoned a meeting in Belfast of his ruling Unionist party to head off a new political crisis. He later won an unanimous vote of confidence from the party.

VIET CONG DESTROYS SOUTH VIETNAMESE OUTPOST

FRONT REPORTS said Wednesday Viet Cong troops overran and leveled a South Vietnamese outpost in the Mekong Delta when its 23 defenders went to sleep without posting security patrols. A force of 50 guerrillas charged into the outpost behind a solid wall of mortar fire and laid it to waste in a 30-minute raid. Eight South Vietnamese militiamen were killed and seven missing when the Viet Cong withdrew. In Saigon, military sources said 3,798 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed last week in the first phase of Hanoi's fall campaign. They said 250 American and 477 South Vietnamese troops were slain in a continuing surge of widespread action.

GUERRILLAS ATTACK TWO ISRAELI POSTS ON SYRIAN BORDER

ARAB GUERRILLAS firing bazooka shells attacked two Israeli positions Wednesday on the occupied Golan Heights area along the Syrian border. The Arabs also hit a United Nations observation post on the Golan Heights, damaging two vehicles and injuring one observer. The attacks prompted an official Israeli warning to Syria that it would face retaliation from Israel if it kept escalating military activities along the Syrian cease-fire line.

HURRICANE CAMILLE'S DEATH TOLL RISES TO 240 AMID CHAOS

HURRICANE CAMILLE'S death toll rose to 240 in the chaotic remains of the Gulf Coast Wednesday and in Virginia, the remnants of the savage storm spawned flash floods that killed nine more. The stench of death and rotting rubbish permeated the Mississippi Coast where the toll of dead was expected to surpass 500. Officials, fearing an epidemic, ordered the survivors of Pass Christian, Mississippi, evacuated. Black marketeers moved in and began peddling ice and water. In Virginia, the remains of Camille dumped 10 inches of rain Wednesday, sending the James River rolling 22 feet out of its banks in western and central portions of the state. Nine were dead, a dozen missing and authorities feared the situation would worsen as the flood rolled down river toward eastern parts of the state. Coast Guard boats pulled seven persons off a sinking fishing boat off Cape Henry, Virginia, and tossed life rafts to the other 22 passengers. They bobbed in storm-tossed seas awaiting cutters to take them to safety.

U.S. WILLING TO TAKE RISKS FOR PEACE, SAYS SEC. ROGERS

SECRETARY OF STATE William P. Rogers said Wednesday the United States was "willing to take sensible risks for peace" and would continue pulling troops out of Vietnam as properly trained South Vietnamese replacements became available. Rogers also indicated that the United States already had reduced military pressure on the Communists in response to their generally reduced level of fighting during the past two months. He spoke to a news conference before flying to join President Nixon in discussions today and Friday with South Korean President Chung Hee Park, who is concerned that frustration with Vietnam might lead the United States to reduce support for his own country.

BOSTON WOMAN KILLED IN FALL FROM WINDOW IN MILAN

A WOMAN identified as Gloria Dean Berry, 25, of Boston, died Wednesday in a fall from a third-story apartment in Milan, Italy. The apartment belongs to an Indian, Kumar Bagai, Sudarshan, 37, of New Delhi, a bookkeeper for an English industrial firm. Police said they found Sudarshan in the apartment under the influence of alcohol and unable to answer questions. A neighbor told police she heard a woman shouting and "severely to ask for help." She said she ran to a widow and saw Miss Berry desperately clinging to a balcony of the apartment balcony. A moment later the woman lost her grip and fell.

DARING BURGLAR HURT IN FALL AS HE STEALS RARE BIBLE

A ROPE-CLIMBING BURGLAR, who may have been following a daredevil movie script, fell nearly 60 feet Wednesday as he attempted to steal a rare copy of the famous Gutenberg Bible from Harvard University's Widener Library. Police said they found Vito K. Aras, 20, of Boston's Dorchester section, lying nearly unconscious on the cement floor of the library's interior courtyard about 1 a.m. Beside Aras were the volumes of the Gutenberg Bible which is among 46 known copies in the world. Aras, who was rushed to Cambridge City Hospital in critical condition, was charged with breaking and entering and with possession of burglary tools. Aras apparently gained access to a men's room on the top floor of the Widener. In a human-fly attempt, he climbed out onto the roof and, using knotted rope, lowered himself to the courtyard. Apparently he then smashed a window and crawled into the room where the Bible was located. Police said the man apparently "just tumbled" from the rope trying to make good his escape.

HOUSE DOOMS 28th PLAN FOR NEW BOSTON-AREA STADIUM

THE MASSACHUSETTS HOUSE Wednesday buried the 28th plan of the decade for a new Boston-area sports stadium. On a voice vote and without debate the lawmakers accepted an adverse report of the Ways and Means Committee providing for construction of a $42 million, 50,000-seat stadium in the South Station area by Massachusetts Turnpike Authority in a package with third tunnel under Boston Harbor. The bill was seriously wounded last week when the state Supreme Court ruled in an advisory opinion it did not spell out in enough detail the "public purpose" of the stadium.

2-Hour Debate Brings 11-9 Decision

Petition On Wet Lands Is Voted To Committee

By SHIRLEY GOLDWYN

After a two-hour debate the Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night by a 11 to 9 vote referred to committee a resolution opposing the granting of a permit to fill the Dolan Pond area in West Newton.

The resolution referred to the controversial petition to the State Department of Natural Resources by Mario DiCarlo who seeks to build a Christmas Tree farm on the West Newton wetlands area.

The resolution aimed to put the Board of Aldermen on record as opposing the granting of a permit by the Department of Natural Resources to fill this wetland.

The board, by a 16 to 2 vote, removed the item from its several months wait in committee and approved a $5,000 appropriation for an architect to design the proposed footbridge at the Newton Corner air rights development.

Alderman H. James Shea, Jr., made the motion to remove the matter from the Public Works Committee. The two aldermen opposing the appropriation were Adelaide B. Ball and Winslow C. Auryansen who expressed the opinion that the board should postpone action until it is determined whether recently installed traffic lights prove effective for pedestrians.

Alderman Shea insisted that the footbridge is needed since the volume of traffic in the area is so heavy that if it were delayed even 20 seconds by lights between the hours of 4 to 6 p.m. cars would be backed up even onto the Massachusetts Turnpike.

Start 128-Boston Bus Runs Soon

Starting September 15, Route 128 and downtown Boston will be linked by express bus service, the MBTA announced last week.

The buses will leave at 15-minute intervals during the rush hours on week days, will travel from the Riverside MBTA station to Summer and Chauncy sts. in downtown Boston. The 12-mile trip is scheduled to take 23 minutes, and will cost 75 cents for a one-way fare, highest on the system.

General Manager Leo J. Cusick said this service is being instituted on a one-year experimental basis. It is expected to draw riders from the Highland Branch cars, which many say are overcrowded, and other patrons who now drive into the city along the toll road extension.

The Riverside terminal has a 1600-car parking lot which is only partially used, even at peak periods. The fee is 10 cents.

The MBTA began express runs from Newton Corner and Watertown Square into Boston via the turnpike two years ago which have proved successful. One line carries passengers to Chauncy and Summer Sts., and averages 1500 one-way riders per day. The other line terminates at the Prudential center and carries 300 patrons each work day.

After the public protest to use of the land for a service facility, Basbas said a way out of the dilemma would be for the city to purchase the land, sell part of it to the church and use the rest for low income housing.

Chairman Driscoll informed Basbas that he had received the city's formal offer to purchase the land and the city's request for an extension of time "beyond" that he previously agreed to."

Driscoll said, "you may be assured that the Authority will consider your offer of purchase most seriously and will sit with our consultants and counsel and others on this matter to reach a decision as quickly as possible."

That Other 10 Per Cent

Senate President Maurice A. Donahue has initiated legislation that would establish a training program for new state meat inspectors.

It is a measure that has been long overdue in this Commonwealth and should receive the support of every citizen.

The legislative Committee on Social Welfare has issued a favorable report on the bill, and it should be speedily enacted by the Legislature.

During hearings on the measure, an official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture disclosed he had discovered six tons of contaminated meat in a Boston meat processing plant. The plant was closed immediately and will not be reopened until it meets the standards required by the Department of Health.

Since the legislative hearing, two State Representatives, William F. Hogan of Everett, and Felix R. Perrault of Forge Village, surveyed 33 meat plants and slaughtering plants around the state.

They made the appalling discovery that 15 of the plants were in what they termed "deplorable condition" and demanded the plants "be cleaned up immediately or put out of business." They insisted that George Michael, director of food and drugs for the Department of Health, look into the matter.

Hogan said 90 per cent of the meat sold in Massachusetts is federally inspected. "It is the other 10 per cent we are worried about," he said.

Everyone should be worried about the other 10 per cent. That is why state meat inspectors should receive training that would insure the citizens of the Commonwealth against the possibility of such meat ever reaching the dinner table.

That is why Sen. Donahue's bill should be enacted into law as soon as possible.

Hangups Do Develop

Youngsters of high school and college age who think experimenting with LSD, marijuana or "speed" is the "in" thing to do are playing a dangerous game.

Contrary to what they and their "hip" friends think, users of the so-called "soft" drugs can get hooked and hooked hard, and become narcotic addicts.

The drug problems in Massachusetts are not just confined to the ghetto areas of the core cities. The problems exist in the "blue chip" suburbs, too.

Just this week, Richard Callahan, director of the New England office of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs, told how LSD became popular in 1967, followed by "speed" amphetamines.

"Then, six, eight or 10 months ago we saw a very dramatic shift in the heroin pattern here," Callahan said.

"Whereas in the past you'd have to go into Roxbury or the South End to get it, we saw heroin move out of the ghetto into the middle class white communities, then into suburbia," he said.

A proportion of those who experimented with "soft" drugs five or six years ago "developed dependency on these softer substances and then escalated their drug use patterns up into hard narcotics," Callahan said.

"I'm not saying that if you smoke marijuana that you're going on to heroin. But I am saying that a percentage of people who experiment with any of these things do develop hangups."

"And that is what we are seeing today."

LETTERS

A Reply From Mario DiCarlo

Editor of the Graphic:

In view of the unfounded statements being made in the press and elsewhere, and involving my name, I trust you will allow me the courtesy of your letter column so that the facts may reach your readers.

The attacks on me technically relate to the petition of the Lasell Realty Co., Inc., with which I am associated. However, the extent of the political activity now evident represents a threat to what we here in Newton consider "due process" in the making and rendering of judgements in public matters. We should not allow it to be displaced by demagogery.

As I wrote this letter I do not know if the petition now in the hands of the State Director of the Division of Conservation Services will be approved or disapproved.

Whatever the decision, my brothers and I will certainly conform to the requirements.

At this juncture, several significant points merit at-

Any petition, from whatever source, coming before the legally constituted boards of the city should be evaluated in an atmosphere free from political bias, prejudice, and sensationalism. All petitioners, including myself, are entitled to the rights of due process and are subject to the obligations of pertinent laws.

The procedures for a matter such as the petition of Lasell

Realty are clearly prescribed by statute for the protection of all parties, the city, the general public, abutters, and

cedures have been strictly followed. I have not expected any special consideration. I have not sought or received any.

The petition was submitted openly and above board for

General Laws, Ch. 131, Sec.

40, the so-called "Hatch Act."

While competent legal opinion

indicated could proceed without such a petition it was filed as a matter of doing the right thing.

The land with which the petition deals is owned by my brothers and myself, our purchase ante-dating the present city administration.

Purchased from private parties, it is currently zoned for house lots.

Because of its present

swampy and rodent-infested state, as owners of this private property we now seek to remove the existing peat, replacing it with solid fill with a subsequent planting of nursery stock.

After completion of the project for which the petition was filed, use of the land for the raising of nursery stock would require permissive use and the prescribed public hearings before the Newton Board of Aldermen. Thus further protection is given the rights of abutters and neighbors.

Moreover, in forwarding the petition to the Director, State

Conservation Services for his independent review and action, the officials of the City of Newton saw fit to make pro-tectionary recommendations, including one for an easement on the property in the public interest.

Extensive public notice was given the public hearings held

June 12.

I realize that proposals such as that covered by the petition do often involve legitimate controversial aspects. This is inevitable and this is precisely why we have established procedures to hear and judge the facts. Free of hysteria generated by political opportunists, decisions are generally made fairly.

However, the criticism directed against the petition in question is altogether out of relationship to the reality of the actual situation. It exceeds what is reasonable and proper. It is being deliberately generated and manipulated for self-serving political purposes of a very few. As related to me, it reached the point of being libelous.

Frankly, I am sick at heart because of the furor. But I will not allow a small ring of mud-slingers to cause me to forfeit my rights as a citizen of a community in which I have lived and worked all my life.

Mindful of the men and women of integrity who make up the vast majority of Newton,

I will continue to do my utmost to justify their continuing confidence in me.

Yours sincerely,

Mario DiCarlo

STRIDE RITE SHOE

Do come in and see why we're so excited. See school-day shoes. And play shoes. Sunday ones. And party ones. Shoes for every possible reason. Shoes for boys. Shoes for girls. Shoes for babies on up. All with that famous Stride Rite quality, fit and value built right in. All fitted to perfection by our experienced staff who act as if they haven't a care in the world but fitting children's feet. And know something? They haven't.

Students at the University of Arizona, for example, run a one-week overnight camp for "less-chance" children. The camp, first begun in 1964 with 76 youngsters, now accommodates three times that number each year, in two separate campsites.

Campers are chosen by the students from lists of underprivileged children in the Tucson area, and the program is financed through campus drives and student-supported activities.

At the Georgia Institute of Technology, a group of students are conducting high school equivalency courses for high school dropouts, at no cost to participants.

A Big-Brother, Big-Sister program is conducted at the University of Rhode Island. Each student involved in the program is assigned to one or more underprivileged children in the area, whom he visits regularly and accompanies to campus events.

FOR AIR AGE

Aviation courses or programs are now included in the curriculum of 375 high schools, a 500 per cent increase over 1966, according to Frank G. Mitchell, manager, Air-Age Education Division, Cessna Aircraft, Wichita, Kan.

Teacher Projects Smart, New Image

YESTERDAY'S TEACHER

That today's teacher must be as up-to-date as the latest audio-visual methods and teaching equipment she employs, is the conclusion of students and parents, educators and teachers alike, according to a first-hand report from "Education Age," bi-monthly published by 3M Education Press.

Thus the old-fashioned schoolmarm of yesterday has been replaced by a smartly-coiffed, fashion-conscious young lady, as the modern image of "Teacher." As for the modern male teacher, he's likely to be up-to-date in a sportcoat — and possibly even a beard.

An administrative view on

might have looked like this, working with yesterday's blackboard and pointer, and wearing a dowdy suit and blouse.

the subject is expressed by Dr. J. J. Floyd Hill, assistant superintendent at Evanston Township High School, near Chicago.

"To hire 50 new teachers last year, we interviewed 200," he says. "We noted particularly these applicants' neatness, speech and appearance. We made our selections ... among those most promising in looks and ability."

Clarence Hach, chairman of the Evanston High English Department, thinks the image a teacher projects is especially important during her first classroom weeks.

"Her students will have their eyes glued on her," he says. "Chic clothes and hair styling help create a favorable impression. Besides, we think teacher-watching is fun at any age."

PLEATS, PLAIDS and pull-overs, plus a vest or sleeveless jacket, add up to campus fashion. They appear here in pullover shirt, inverted-pleat skirt, jacket, smartly accessorized. All from Sportemps.

JUMPERS PLAIDS and turtlenecks are fashion favorites at grade school, and this young outfit boasts all three. By Aileen Giri; photographed at Fashion Institute of Technology.

Do kids like ice cream?

The answer, of course, is a resounding "yes" to both questions! Kids have been eating and enjoying ice cream down to the last "lick" ever since it was invented.

And Want Ads have been "working" ... producing results for both buyer and seller even longer than ice cream has been in existence.

Home Study Has New Role In High Schools

Home study schools, long a source of adult education, are playing a new educational role at the high school level — two new roles, in fact.

They're helping high schools cope with teacher shortages. And they're helping high school dropouts continue their education.

Through a Supervised Correspondence Study program, high schools can offer specialized subjects even when teachers are lacking.

The high school provides a supervisor, and a home study school provides course materials, grading and other student services.

More than 1,000 high schools are currently participating in this program, working with private home study schools.

accredited by the National Home Study Council, which examines and accredits its member schools on the basis of educational and business standards.

To the high school dropout, home study schools offer a second chance for a diploma. By completing the necessary courses at home, dropouts can qualify for a high school equivalency diploma.

The home student should check, however, to be sure that his local high school or state board of education recognizes the high school equivalency procedure.

from guiding faculties made up of individuals famous in their respective fields.

In an effort to help low-achievers enter and benefit from college, a new program has been introduced by Forest Park Community College in St. Louis. Instruction is individually programmed for students who have ranked low in high school and in college entrance tests.

Slacks, Sweaters Getting High Marks For Class and Campus, This Semester

Slacks and sweaters, always waist to give a clearly defined shape.

The fitted look, without the belt, can also be found in a wide range of cabled and finely ribbed sweaters.

Sweater vests, with button-front or pullover styling, are making a comeback, worn with contrasting shirts or another sweater.

Among the handsome revivals are the argyles, which are appearing in high schools and on campus in sleeveless V-neck styles, often "layered" with solid coordinated sweaters.

For the student who prefers his sweater look loose and less fitted, the traditional cardigans are still strong in style, with newer models featuring wide shawl collars.

In color, sweaters sport shades of heather and oatmeal shades, as well as bright oranges and reds. Striped trim is evident.

Matching up with the new look in sweaters is the new look in slacks. Collegians and high schoolers alike are taking to the flared pants leg this fall. At the cuff line, widths range from 19 to 29 inches.

Even jeans, everybody's favorite, are available in the new flared models for schooltime leisure wear.

Another new slack silhouette is the "stovepipe," perfectly straight from knee to cuffs, to provide a straight lean line.

Bolder colors and patterns reflect the newness in styling, and checks, plaid, houndstooths and windowpanes are appearing in bright new colors. Herringbones and tweeds are back, especially in browns and greens.

The big solid color — a rich chocolate brown — is backed up by spice browns, camel and muted grays and blues.

Waistlines are fitted and pleated just below the belt to give a neat fitted look, while wide loops, self-belts, half-belts, side buckles and back straps add interest.

Here's Guide to Lighting Right Way to Homework

Is there enough light — a minimum of a 150 watt bulb? Is the light comfortable — no harsh glare or shadows?

Is the lamp properly placed?

For the right light in a home study center, parents and students should make sure they can answer "yes" to these three questions, according to Rita Harrold, director of residential lighting, Westinghouse.

One lamp may provide the required light on the task, but no one should study with just one lamp in the room. Contrast between bright light sources and dim areas will be uncomfortable.

To break down the difference, turn on other lights in the room.

An approved lamp for studying is the Better Light Better Sight lamp available from several manufacturers. Lamps tagged with this name have been approved by Electrical Testing Laboratories.

An under-shade device distinguishes these lamps from regular table lamps and helps to provide a good distribution of the right amount of light over the entire work area.

If it isn't possible to place a lamp right on the desk, floor lamps with the same under-shade device and with ETL approval are available.

When a regular table lamp is used for studying, it should have a shade with a generous diameter — 15 or 16 inches — which allows up as well as down light. The shade should be white or have a white lining and should be fairly dense but not opaque.

Very short or very tall lamps should be avoided. The bottom edge of the shade should be about 15 inches above the desk top or at eye level.

Another alternative would be to place two pin-up lamps 15 inches above the desk, spaced 30 inches apart. Each should have a 100 watt bulb.

Some basic rules for the back-to-school pedal-pushers are suggested by the Bicycle Institute of America.

Observe all traffic regulations, red and green lights, one-way streets and stop signs. Keep to the right and ride in a straight line with traffic.

Have a white light on the front, and see that batteries are fresh. A rear reflector should be visible 300 feet, and a loud signaling device should be installed.

Riders should give pedestrians the right-of-way and stay off sidewalks.

Never hitch rides on other vehicles, and never carry riders or packages that obstruct vision or prevent proper control of the bike.

Brakes should be operating efficiently, and can be tested easily. Hand signals should be used when coming to a stop or turning.

Fix Up Bikes for School, Ride with Care, Is Advice

For millions of youngsters, going back to school means mounting a bicycle and wheeling away. To these youngsters, traffic safety has a special meaning.

Their own safety, and that of others, often depends on the operating condition of the bicycle and on their knowledge of good bicycling practices.

In addition, good techniques make bicycling more fun, and a well-maintained bike is easier to ride.

Told Of Home Loan Rights

The Veterans Administration reminded returning Newton veterans today they are eligible for home loans for 12 to 20 years after they get out of service.

Eligible veterans who served after Jan. 31, 1955, will have a maximum of 20 years from the date of their discharge or until March 3, 1976, whichever is later, to take advantage of their G.I. home loan benefit.

To determine the expiration date of his own eligibility, each veteran who served after Jan. 31, 1955, can assume that he has 10 years after his discharge from active duty plus one year for each three months of military service, VA explained.

Thus, a Viet-Nam era veteran with two years service, for example, would have 18 years after discharge to use his G.I. loan guaranty entitlement.

Nationally, 254,383 applications for VA loans guarantees were received for the 12-month period ending June 30, 1969, and 9,268 applications were received at the VA regional office in Boston.

VA pointed out that the 1968

Mann Commends
MBTA Proposal
On New Service

Representative Theodore D. Mann today commended the MBTA on its proposal to expand its rapid transit bus service from Newton to Boston via the Massachusetts Turnpike from Riverside. He said that the decision of the MBTA to provide this new service "is certainly a giant step in the right direction."

Mann, a longtime advocate of more adequate public transportation for the City of Newton, reiterated his proposal that the MBTA continue to experiment with pick-ups near route 128 in the Oak Hill and Waban areas.

Representative Mann also suggested the possibility of bringing rapid transit bus service from the Dedham street area in Newton to Forest Hills via the V.F.W. Parkway.

"The willingness of MBTA officials to experiment with these new routes", Mann noted, "is most encouraging."

"In addition to securing better public transportation, these new routes will diminish traffic congestion in several areas of Newton, promote safer driving, and will help create safer conditions for children going to school. We must continue to experiment and innovate in order to bring about these desirable objectives", Mann added.

Preacher Swings To Off-Broadway Congregations

By DUSTON HARVEY

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) —

The Rev. Al Carmines admits he has an "odd ministry."

In addition to preaching and counseling, the 32-year-old Methodist minister acts, sings, plays piano and operates a lively theater producing new and often far-out plays.

While these activities are part of his ministerial duties, Carmines has been forced literally to moonlight to compose his five off-Broadway musicals.

The Greenwich Village clergyman writes his music between 1 and 5 a.m.—leaving him time to preach and perform during the daylight and evening hours.

"I'm lucky. I only need six hours sleep," said the heavy-set, long-haired Carmines during an interview at Stanford Summer Festival, where he appeared in his musical version of Gertrude Stein's "In Circles."

Despite his success as a popular composer-two musicals, "Peace" and "Promenade," are now playing off-Broadway—he has no plans to leave the ministry.

Carmines, who became associate pastor at Judson Memorial Church in Greenwich Village after graduating from Union Theological Seminary in 1961, finds the two fields complement each other.

"I like dealing with people of all ages and of all backgrounds . . . and we have a very diverse congregation," he said. "It helps me in my composing. It keeps me from becoming too academic and esoteric."

Carmines, who did some acting while a student at Swarthmore, was hired by his church to set up a theater which would perform original works by New York playwrights.

Diamond Jubilee Plans Set . . .

Newton Site Of Anniversary Banquet For Optometry Coll.

Massachusetts College of Optometry, the nation's oldest, launches its 75th Anniversary Celebration this fall with a Diamond Jubilee Banquet and the Inaugural in Newton of its first president, Dr. William R. Baldwin.

The Diamond Jubilee Banquet and Inaugural which is expected to attract seven hundred people, is scheduled for Wednesday evening, October 8, in the Grand Ballroom of the New Marriott Motor Hotel in Newton, Massachusetts. The Reception for President Baldwin will begin at 5:30 o'clock and the dinner will be at 6:30.

State and municipal officials and presidents from the leading colleges and universities in the area will join in the tribute to Dr. Baldwin, who is regarded as the nation's foremost optometric educational administrator.

In five years as Dean of the Pacific University College of Optometry, Dr. Baldwin increased the size of the faculty by 100%, expanded its curriculum and spearheaded a capital funds drive which resulted in construction of a million-dollar academic building.

He has already doubled the full-time faculty at Massachusetts College of Optometry and has initiated a program which places greater emphasis on visual science, broader participation of alumni faculty and students in college affairs, and expanded facilities for the academic and clinical programs.

Dr. Baldwin, as the only optometrist on the U.S.S. Hope, the international hospital ship, was instrumental in helping to establish a college of optometry in Ceylon, first university-connected school of optometry in that area of the world. It opens this fall as a graduate program.

A native of Indiana, the 42-year-old Massachusetts College of Optometry president has been a leader in civic and professional affairs. He is Chairman of the American Optometric Association Committee on Research and is a member of the American Association for the Advancement of Science. A prolific writer on visual science, he has published many articles and professional papers.

Dr. Baldwin was chosen in 1961 as recipient of the State of Indiana Distinguished Service Award and was also named Outstanding State Chairman in the field of civic affairs.

Regarding Dr. Baldwin's appointment as president, Dr.

Richard W. Baker, Chairman of the College's Board of Trustees declared, "We are very proud indeed to have persuaded Dr. William Baldwin to be our president with his outstanding optometric background as educator and administrator.

Evidence of his prestige has been already demonstrated in the other prominent educators who have been attracted to the full-time faculty and administration at the Massachusetts College of Optometry to serve with Dr. Baldwin. I am certain that his appointment will increase the college's stature tremendously and will bring added lustre to the entire optometric profession in New England."

The theme of the 75th year-long Jubilee Celebration will be, "Threshold of Excellence," A New Era for the Massachusetts College of Optometry. Included in the projected program will be a campaign for physical expansion of the college and its optometric clinic, the establishment of a scholarship program for black students and the sponsorship of an International Conference on Visual Science.

Dr. Alfred Hanson, Treasurer of the Board of Trustees for the Massachusetts College of Optometry is the Chairman for the Banquet.

This Week's Best Buys

The native sweet corn season hits a welcome mid-season peak, with an excellent supply of uniformly sweet-kernelled varieties on hand at money saving prices, according to the Mass. Dept. of Agriculture in releasing the week's "Best Buys" in native produce. As corn prices drop, so do the prices of green beans, cabbage, and recent newcomers on the market like California wonder peppers and Italian frying peppers. Red Gravenstein apples and Early McIntosh add native zest to fruit counters.

Bay state farmers are coming to the aid of hard pressed homemaker budgets this week, sending a very long list of vegetables to market, giving homemakers the widest possible choices for salads and nutritious side dishes. Native eggplant is abundant and economical and makes an excellent substitute in a variety of "meat" dishes.

Eggplant parmesan is a surprisingly heft "meaty" goodness for budget minded menu makers:

Pare 1 large eggplant, cut in 1/4" slices. Fry both sides in oil until brown and drain well on absorbent paper. Put layer of eggplant slices in shallow baking dish and cover with 1/2 cups canned tomato sauce, a good dash of parmesan cheese and a few slices of mozzarella cheese. Repeat layers until all ingredients including 1/4 cup olive oil, 1/4 cup grated parmesan and 1/2 lb mozzarella cheese are used up, ending with mozzarella. Bake at 400 degrees F. 15 minutes. Serves 4.

Sid Gilman has been head coach of the Chargers both when they played in the 1960 season in Los Angeles and ever since their 1961 move to San Diego.

NOTED FOR CLASS AND CAMPUS, plaids have as many moods as there are subjects, interests and activities on the school scene. Argyle interpretation pictured dresses up with contrasting collar and cuffs. Dress, by Red Eye, is machine washable.

RIGHT ANSWERS TO WARDROBE questions, in any school term, often come from mixable jumpers and blouses. This season's new version is the suspender skirt, shown here in a velvety corduroy with ruffled satin-back crepe blouses. By Russ.

AS ENROLLMENTS AND EDUCATIONAL AIMS EXPAND, SO MUST colleges and universities. Currently, they're in the midst of a five-year construction program that will probably cost more than $21 billion. Typical of the new buildings is the new library at the University of Indiana. Of pre-fabricated limestone, it is designed to house more than 2,500,000 volumes. Windowless above the third floor, the building is air-conditioned for year-round use.

Boys Choose the Colorful Look Planned for Carefree Comfort

From the first day of school like big brother, or by asking forward through fall and into the winter months, the grade school boy today is likely to be more colorfully and more trimly dressed than his counterpart of even a few seasons ago.

Though he may not own up to it, the grade school youngster has an interest in fashion. He may express it by saying that he wants to dress style and comfort. Rugged fabrics, such as corduroy, take on new colors and textures to brighten up his fashion life.

Color and coordination help keep him looking trim. His shirts, slacks and sweaters are planned to go well together, and they're more colorful, too.

Still favors a Western look with a bit of dash. Like Dad and brother, he'll be seen outerwear wardrobe.

This is innovation in education — the thing all educators talk about and more and more are beginning to do something about.

New Makes School News!

NEW YORK (UPI) — Some New Jersey students go to the seashore to study marine biology and oceanography where the action really is.

In Berkeley, Calif., a multi-media demonstration chamber and mini-museum are used to teach the history of mankind in a dramatic audio-visual way.

Brockton, Mass., students read news dispatches from a UPI Teletype and then go to their texts or library resources to learn more about the social science topic the day's news brings up.

It's the first time that money has ever been made available for failure," said Dr. Will Atwood, coordinator of Title III programs in Georgia. He meant that money now is available for school districts to experiment with new approaches programs that might not work.

The thrust of innovative programs in a number of states is to tailor curriculum to the individual. Non-graded schools, modular scheduling, team teaching and programmed instruction are among the ways this has been attempted.

In North Carolina, the majority of the state's school districts have taken an ungraded approach to the first three years of elementary school, allowing the student to progress at the rate of his own readiness. The non-graded classes allow them to start at a level determined by their background, not rigid Board of Education rules.

Massachusetts' school officials note two trends toward individualism — programmed instruction in which the student proceeds at his own rate and team teaching.

In Oregon, Deputy State School Superintendent Milton Baum says nearly 100 school systems are using team teaching in the elementary grades. The team teaching approach utilizes one team leader — an outstanding teacher — directing three or four other teachers or student teachers in a subject area.

Each instructs the students in a particular phase of the course in a way to stimulate interest and allow for more individual attention.

The Colorado Education Department says schools in that state are leaning heavily toward technology — the computer, educational television and the amplified telephone to help individualize the curriculum.

New York state is taking some new looks at reading. One of the new systems used in a number of districts is the initial teaching alphabet (ita). It is, there is only one letter for each sound and that means a few extra letters have to be added to the usual 26-letter alphabet. After a year or so with ita, the primary student is switched over to the regular English alphabet. A major evaluation of ita is underway at Newburgh, N. Y. Another reading approach is the color method in which some letters, vowels especially, are printed in various colors according to their pronunciation.

At Patterson Elementary School in Jefferson County, near Denver, a computer is employed to work out modular scheduling. The computer writes a schedule for each

Further "Exploration" Needed In Lahey Move

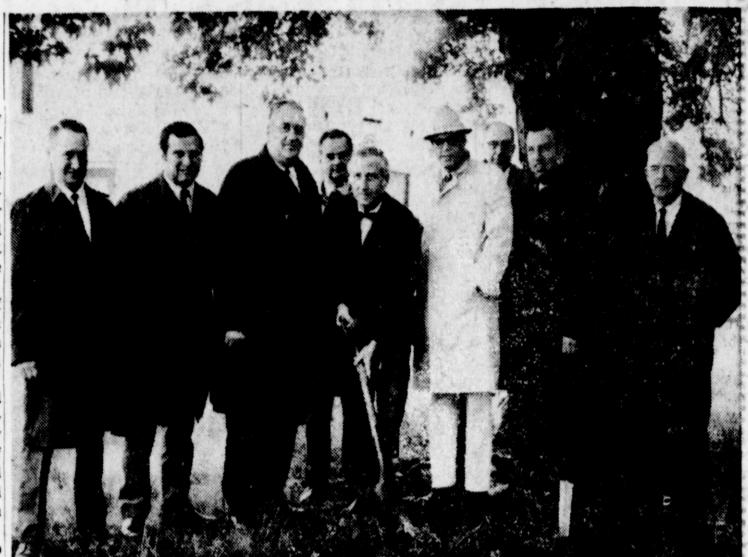

The Lahey Clinic withdrew its request to construct a hospital on the Woodland Golf Club property in Auburndale. Asked if one reason for the delay was because further "exploration" was needed, a Clinic official posed land transfer to Dover said Tuesday.

A public hearing before the Golf Club membership has not been scheduled for Sept. 15. An official statement was issued stating that "a number of contingencies involved. But studies and the depth of the club isn't going to vote on them" make it impossible at our proposal until they feel this time to make the previously set public hearing date.

Opposition to the 200-bed hospital and accessory building has been expressed by neighbors and officials of Newton. The clinic intends to reapply for the Woodland Golf Club site permit at a future date. There was no indication when that date would be.

Clinic officials said "there are a tremendous number of $15 million medical center, five questions to be answered" as to 10 stories high, on the 135-acre site. Lahey Clinic, now at Bay State road, Boston, is a world famous institution which treats the wealthy and poor on an ability-to-pay basis.

The clinic is being squeezed out of its Kenmore Sq. site due to what clinic officials say is an overcrowding of conditions in that area and lack of room to expand.

GROUND-BREAKING CEREMONY — Ceremonies held in Auburndale recently initiated the beginning of construction of the 57-unit elderly housing project scheduled for completion by mid-summer next year. Ground Is Broken For Elderly Housing Project In Auburndale

The ground has been broken building with complete laundry facilities, a full kitchen and general concepts. The departments of education surveyed by UPI in various parts of the country cited numerous ways in which schools have begun to innovate in recent years. Federal funds provided under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act are financing many of the bold new programs.

The project is scheduled for completion before July of next year. The apartments, which will run from Ash Street at Commonwealth Ave. to Auburn St., will include 13 one total of 86 units bedroom units, 39 efficiency under lease throughout the city units and a community center.

Unusual Work Of Sculpture At Brandeis U.

Two extremely large and unusual works of sculpture are on display now through Oct. 5 outside Brandeis University's Rose Art Museum.

The structures are the work of two Boston sculptors, Curtis Crystal and Michael Phillips.

Mr. Crystal's 26-foot high structure consists of 12 Fiberglas I-beams arranged in vertical emphasis with criss-crossing beams poised in counterbalance.

Mr. Phillips' work is constructed of blue plywood and cable. It originates in a central cluster of huge, tilted rectangular planes from which the cable extends 256 feet to successive, single sheets of plywood standing on end.

The two sculptors, who also are painters, are co-founders of the Boston Studio Coalition, a group of artists who seek recognition outside the familiar artist-gallery relationship.

In a joint statement made in connection with the Brandeis showing, the two stressed the need for "physicality, expressiveness, immediacy and impact," adding, "traditional concepts of exhibition are challenged when the artist begins to mold the environment."

"Such an art demands a new cooperation between the community and the artist in seeking a new and affirmative role for the artist in redefining the space we live in," they said.

Berklee School Expands Again

The Berklee School of Music has announced the opening in September of new facilities at the institution, the former Bostonian Hotel at 1140 Boylston St., Back Bay.

According to President Lawrence Berk, a Newton resident for 20 years, Berklee has the greatest student enrollment of any private, non-profit college of music in the country.

He said the school is expanding its facilities for the second time in three years in order to accommodate its fall enrollment of over 1300 students from this country and abroad.

Many entering and returning students, as well as five faculty members, are from the Newton area.

This Is Official Month To Eat, Enjoy Sandwiches

By PATRICIA S. FROMBERGER
(Norfolk County Extension Service)

In recognition of the ever-increasing popularity of sandwiches in both home and restaurant service, August is designated each year as the official month of sandwich eating. This is the time to try out new recipes and to fill recipe files to bursting with the many new and tasty sandwich recipes featured in newspaper and magazine food pages.

The sandwich is generally order to salvage the eggs, and thought to be an American kill the bad flavor of them, food, but its inventor was pioneer women mixed eggs John Montagu, Fourth Earl of Sandwich, and any other sandwich. Montagu was a seasoning on hand.

Kiwanians List Nixon, Top GOP On Member Roll

A total of one hundred and thirty-six members of the 91st United States Congress are active or honorary members of Kiwanis; it was announced today by Ernest O. Seyfarth, president of the Kiwanis Club of Newton.

In addition, he said, President Nixon is a former member of the Kiwanis Club of La Habra, California, Vice-President Agnew is a member of the Kiwanis Club of Loch Raven, Maryland, and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird is a member of the Kiwanis Club of Marshfield, Wisconsin. Herbert Klein, Director of Communications, is a past president of the Kiwanis Club of San Diego, California.

Ernest O. Seyfarth said the recently completed survey dramatizes the willingness of Kiwanians to accept the highest responsibilities of community service in keeping with their stated philosophy of involvement. "Naturally, we are proud that so many Kiwanians are numbered on the rolls of the U.S. House and Senate," he said. "They constitute more than twenty percent of the total membership of the two houses."

Police Officer To Appeal Punishment Duty To Court

A Newton patrolman is going to court in order to fight what he terms "involuntary servitude" as a result of being given 200 hours work without pay as punishment duty.

He was charged with falling asleep in a cruiser while on duty.

Walter B. Hayward, 34, maintains he is innocent of the charge and that even if he were not the punishment is too harsh. "I'm not guilty and I'm not going to just accept it."

A second patrolman receiving the same punishment has not appealed.

The 200 hours without pay represents an $800 loss for Hayward, a Newton native and father of three children.

Hayward said that in addition to the 200 hours without pay, he was also taken off his regular route, changed from a rotating shift to the last half shift, given Mondays and Fridays off rather than consecutive days and not allowed to work extra details or overtime.

The incident which touched off the punishment occurred early in the morning on April 1 when Hayward and his partner, James T. Bradley Jr., were in a cruiser parked behind the Angier School, 1697 Beacon St., Waban.

Newton Police Sgt. Richard Duffy found the pair and reported to Police Chief William F. Quinn that both were asleep. Bradley and Hayward were given a hearing before the chief.

In addition, both men wrote reports of the alleged incident. "He didn't believe us," said Hayward of Quinn. A second hearing was held, as required by Civil Service Law, this time before Mayor Monte G. Basbas and Quinn.

The result of that hearing was the 200 hours without pay punishment given to both Hayward says, "I'm being men. "We were a little discouraged and felt you can't be found guilty."

Two Basbas Appointments Get Aldermanic Approval

Two appointments by Mayor Monte G. Basbas of city department heads were confirmed by the Newton Board of Aldermen on Monday night.

Wilfred T. Dery of 331 Newtonville Ave. was named Purchasing Agent at an annual salary of $15,000 and E. Michael Ferris of North Chelmsford was appointed Planning Director at a yearly salary of $14,500.

Alderman Sidney T. Small, who explained that he did not question the "ability, integrity or anything else" of Dery, attempted to have the appointment referred to the Public Works Committee so that the candidate could be interviewed by that group. He said that though the Finance Committee had interviewed him a sizeable percentage of city purchases involve the Public Works Department. Small's motion was defeated.

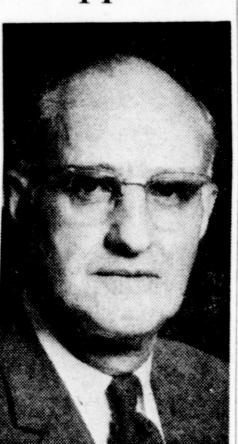

Wilfred Dery, 57 years old, is currently purchasing agent for the P. F. Avery Corporation of Billerica, a subsidiary of Combustion Engineering Corp.

He is a graduate of LaSalle Institute, Troy, New York and completed a Foreman's Training Course at Northeastern University during World War II.

E. Michael Ferris, who is 28 years old, is now serving as Assistant Director of the Greater Lowell Area Planning Commission.

He has also held posts as planner for Consulting Services Corp., Seattle, Washington and management assistant for Manufacturers Life Insurance Co. in Seattle.

Ferris hold a BA degree from the University of Washington and a Master of Urban Planning from the same university.

RUSSIA BELIEVED SERIOUSLY CONSIDERING ATTACK ON CHINA

THE POSSIBILITY of a Soviet air attack to wipe out China's growing nuclear capability is being taken in Washington with increasing seriousness because of intelligence reports that Russia is sounding out its allies on the idea. The assumption is that Russian leaders, still debating how to deal with increasingly hostile China, want to determine whether such an extreme action would cost them support in the International Communist community, particularly in Eastern Europe. The Kremlin also must be weighing the military implications if Peking, in retaliation, should launch a massive land invasion of Russia along their 4,500 mile border. The Russians then would be faced with a decision of whether to use nuclear weapons to halt the armed hordes China could throw against them.

BRITAIN VOWS NOT TO GIVE UP NORTHERN IRELAND TO REPUBLIC

BRITISH HOME SECRETARY James Callaghan in Belfast, Northern Ireland, Wednesday, issued a "flat and unequivocal" promise that Britain would not give up Northern Ireland to the Irish Republic. As he issued the pledge, Northern Ireland's Premier, James Chichester-Clark, appointed two Protestants and one Catholic to a three-man government tribunal to investigate the recent violence growing out of the drive by the Catholic minority for equal voting and other civil rights. Callaghan flew to Belfast Wednesday for a three-day first hand look at the troubles in the six northern countries.

ISRAEL DEFENDS ITS AIR STRIKES AGAINST LEBANON

ISRAEL Wednesday defended its air strikes against Lebanon early this month as acts of self defense and denounced a United Nations Security Council resolution condemning the raids. In Tel Aviv, Sen. Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., told newsmen he would advise President Nixon to increase shipments of U.S. Phantom and Skyhawk jets to Tel Aviv to maintain a balance of power in the Middle East.

LODGE BRIEFS SAIGON DELEGATES ON HIS TALKS WITH NIXON

CHIEF AMERICAN NEGOTIATOR Henry Cabot Lodge briefed the Saigon delegation leader, Pham Dang Lam, Wednesday in Paris on his consultations with President Nixon on the Vietnam stalemate. The half-hour meeting in Lodge's office in the U.S. Embassy came less than 24 hours after Lodge returned from the United States where Nixon announced he was deferring a decision on the withdrawal of more American troops.

NIXON DEDICATES 'LADY BIRD JOHNSON GROVE' AT REUNION

PRESIDENT NIXON dedicated a "Lady Bird Johnson Grove" in Redwood Forest, California, Wednesday in honor of the former First Lady during a gay birthday reunion with his onetime political foe and predecessor in the White House. The Nixon and Johnson families flew together to the park near the California-Oregon boundary from San Clemente where the new President sang "Happy Birthday" to the old at a colorful welcome on the Johnsons' arrival from Texas.

DISSIDENT LAWYERS DRAFT GRIEVANCE OVER NIXON POLICIES

MORE THAN 40 of the 76 staff attorneys in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division met secretly Tuesday night and named a committee to draft a statement of grievances about the Nixon Administration's school desegregation policies, it was learned Wednesday in Washington. A former Justice Dept. civil rights chief said the Administration's stand on school desegregation in Mississippi, which triggered the revolt by government lawyers, was "the most significant civil rights retreat in many years." The dissident lawyers retreated into silence Wednesday to await the document, which is to be presented to their superior, Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard, and to Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

TRICIA NIXON FEELING BETTER; APPENDICITIS RULED OUT

TRICIA NIXON was feeling better and sitting up Wednesday, but doctors still were not sure what caused the abdominal pains which sent her to the hospital. A White House spokesman said the blonde, 23-year-old daughter of the President would spend a second night at Walter Reed Army Medical Center. Doctors at first thought that she had appendicitis but have now ruled that out. Her condition was described as "not serious."

CONN. ARMY SERGEANT GETS TERM FOR DELIVERING DOCUMENT

THE U.S. ARMY European Headquarters in Heidelberg, Germany, said Wednesday an Army sergeant from Connecticut, convicted of giving another soldier "cosmic top secret" NATO defense plans, has been sentenced to three years in prison. Staff Sgt. Joseph B. Attardi, 29, of Windsor Locks, was convicted by court martial July 22 of reproducing a classified document without authorization and "willfully delivering it" to an unauthorized person.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE OFFERED JOB IN NIXON ADMINISTRATION

SHIRLEY TEMPLE Black said Wednesday in Woodside, Calif., she had been offered a job in the Nixon Administration but could not discuss it until official announcement is made. Rumor had it that the job was U.S. ambassador to the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) but the western White House branded this "totally inaccurate." "I know what the job is, but it has not been announced officially and I just can't discuss it," the former child movie star said from her home in the wealthy San Francisco suburb.

DINIS SAYS KOPECHNE INQUEST WILL NOT BE POSTPONED

DIST. ATTY. EDMUND DINIS said Wednesday that an inquest scheduled for Sept. 3 will be held, with or without exhumation and autopsy on the body of Mary Jo Kopechne, killed in an auto accident involving Sen. Edward M. Kennedy. Present at a pre-inquest hearing held by Judge James A. Boyle of Edgartown District Court Wednesday were lawyers representing 10 persons who along with Kennedy and Miss Kopechne attended a cookout on Chappaquiddick Island off Martha's Vineyard prior to the accident. They asked Judge Boyle to "give us the basis and the ground rules whereby this inquest is going to proceed." An attorney representing Sen. Kennedy said he would voluntarily attend the inquest. If Boyle grants the requests for ground rules, that counsel be allowed to examine and cross examine witnesses; that counsel be allowed to present evidence; and that counsel have the right to compel witnesses to appear, it would be unprecedented in Massachusetts where inquests are not criminal proceeding. They are designed only to establish a legal cause of death.

'69 Real Estate Tax Bills Mailed To Homeowners

The real estate tax bills of Newton homeowners were mailed out this week and along with them went an explanation by Mayor Basbas of where the tax dollar is spent.

The Mayor pointed out to his "fellow taxpayers" that Newton's new rate of $98.40 per thousand valuation compares favorably with Boston's rate of $155.40, a $15.20 increase for Hub residents, and Quincy's jump of $17.50 to a rate of $116.40.

The School Budget took up the greatest share of the city's total budget of $44,966,121, almost half, or a whopping $21,457,813. The figure includes $18,686,22 for the school budget only and $2,771,591 allocated for school purposes within other departmental budgets.

The Mayor said the new tax reflects an almost 10 percent increase in the cost of city government. He broke down the $9.80 tax hike, showing that $8.23 of the increase was caused by factors over which the Mayor and Aldermen have no control.

City Seeks Cold Spring Golf Course

A city application for open space conservation of 10 acres of privately owned land at Cold Spring, Newton Highlands, is under advisement by the Massachusetts Department of Natural Resources.

Newton is asking the state to approve its request for $107,000 in order to take the land by eminent domain from Coletti Realty Inc., 46 Lenglen rd., Newton.

Mayor Basbas said the city is interested in getting the land on a share basis for recreational use. The 10 acres adjoin Cold Spring Playground, off Beaconwood st. Under the share system, the city pays $71,000 and the state pays $31,000. The land is needed to round out a golf course," the Mayor said.

News of the city's application, filed six months ago, came as a surprise to Coletti Realty, which has an application pending with the Dept. of Natural Resources to use the land for houses.

Minister Gets Leave From Church To Campaign for Pol

An Episcopal minister in western Massachusetts has taken a leave of absence from his religious duties to help manage the campaign of Representative Michael C. Dukakis of Brookline who is seeking the Democratic nomination for Lieutenant Governor.

He is the Rev. John B. Lawton, Jr., of St. John's Church in Williamstown.

This is not his first venture into politics. Last year the clergyman, teaming up with a veteran of the fighting in Vietnam, defeated two popular public figures out in the Berkshires to win election as delegates to the Democratic National Convention.

That in itself is unusual, but what it points up is that the Democrats usually fight it out for places on their party's State ticket while the Republicans who fill the slots below that of Governor on the GOP slate are generally hand-picked.

Gala Grand Opening For Marriott Hotel Sept. 4

The luxurious new multi-million dollar Marriott Motor Hotel in Newton is now open to the public and the official Grand Opening of Greater Boston's most exciting hotel will be held on September 4.

Situated on the site of the former Totem Pole Ballroom at Norumbega Park in Newton, the Marriott will be the largest hotel to open in Greater Boston since the Sheraton-Boston and is the third largest in Boston.

Two elegantly designed dining rooms will offer many food specialties. The Sirloin and Saddle Restaurant with its artifacts reflecting racing, hunting and equestrian themes, is cantilevered to provide guests with a better view of the magnificent setting of the Charles River area.

The elegant Windjammer Room offers cocktails, dancing and entertainment nightly.

Unique in many ways, the Marriott Motor Hotel has its main entrance and Grand Ballroom on the fourth floor of the hotel. The facility was designed to take advantage of the natural contours of the land overlooking the Charles River.

The Grand Ballroom with 18-foot high ceilings occupies 7000 square feet and has electrically-controlled multi-purpose dividers to convert the main room into five smaller areas for meetings and seminars. This ballroom will accommodate 700 persons and an adjacent smaller ballroom will have a seating capacity of 300.

Located on Commonwealth Avenue at the junction of the Massachusetts Turnpike and Route 128, the Marriott has been built on a 12-acre site with a total of 433 sleeping rooms, including 300 twin double rooms. They all have inset headboards and the decor is either gold or rust.

In addition there are Marriott Parlors featuring full-size beds which recess into the wall making a full room available for a business meeting. Studio rooms with double bed and a convertible bed also are available among the sleeping rooms.

The bi-level suite is the "queen" of rooms at the Marriott. Overlooking the magnificent setting of the Charles River, this suite, with its own private balcony, has a powder room, bar and dining alcove on the lower level and a bedroom and bath upstairs.

The hotel also has a spectacular outdoor pool on the banks of the Charles, an indoor, all-year-round pool, boutique beauty salon and barber shop, as well as health center facilities.

The Marriot's own and operate other successful hotels in Washington, D.C., Saddle Brook, N.J., Philadelphia, Chicago, Atlanta, Dallas, Houston, The Essex House in New York City, the Camelback Inn, Scottsdale, Ariz. and in Acapulco, Mexico. On the planning boards are Marriott hotels for New Orleans, Denver and Los Angeles.

Incinerator Use Denied Polaroid Co.

Acting on complaints of fly ash escaping from the Newton incinerator, Willard S. Pratt, director of Newton Public Works, has denied the use of the incinerator to the Polaroid Corp.

One April 30 permission was granted the Polaroid Corp. to utilize the incinerator for their Cambridge and Waltham plants.

Residents in Newton and Waltham complained of fly ash and pollution emanating from the incinerator and the Public Works Department began an investigation to determine the cause.

In a letter to the Polaroid Corp., Pratt said:

"In the past few weeks we have been conducting experiments trying to determine what material we are burning that causes fly ash which the spray and baffle system at the Newton incinerator will not remove from the gases going to the stack.

"It would appear that the material delivered from your plants is suspect and, therefore, until further notice no further rubbish will be accepted from your plants at the Newton incinerator."

Soft living, we are told, has devitalized cats to the point where they are no longer a match for mice. And dogs, we are told, have become so domesticated they could not now survive without the tender loving care provided by their masters.

Don't ask me who is telling us this. I have long since forgotten where I heard or read it. But I am convinced something similar is happening to the botanical world.

Many plants, like many animals, have lost their natural instincts through excessive cultivation and no longer have the capacity to take care of themselves.

They have become pampered by man to such an extent that they are now dependent upon man, and can only exist in a protected environment. Take pruning for example.

After years of being pruned by man, many plants have forgotten how to grow their own branches properly. If left to their own devices, they will get their limbs all tangled up and eventually choke themselves.

I have in my own yard a peach tree that is totally incapable of growing unattended, it makes all sorts of stupid mistakes, like sprouting so many peaches on one limb, the limb breaks.

Some sort of restriction on the use of pesticides may be inevitable. But first we've got to stop mollycoddling our plants and prepare them to manage.

Epstein Named Chairman Of African Fathers Sinai Hospital's Campaign

In a double announcement made by Archie Kaplan, Chairman of the New England Sinai Hospital's $1.5 million drive for a new 120-bed hospital, Rubin Epstein of Chestnut Hill was named chairman of the second annual Development Fund dinner set for Sunday, October 26, at the Sheraton-Boston Hotel.

Dr. John Knowles, General Director of the Massachusetts General Hospital, whose nomination for a national health post attracted worldwide attention, will be the guest speaker at the dinner. Dr. Knowles is also a Professor of Medicine at Harvard Medical School and a visiting Professor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Mr. Epstein, who is a vice-president and member of the

For eight years he chaired the March of Dimes fund raising dinners. He serves on the Finance Committee of the Massachusetts Association of Mental Health, is chairman of the Brookline Cancer Fund, past chairman of its Heart Fund and past assistant chairman of the American Red Cross.

These facilities have now been moved to the Authority's expanded Maintenance Depot in Weston.

Don't Be A Statistic

Most folks who read editorials urging the utmost care on our highways over the long Labor Day weekend usually feel the warning is intended for "the other fellow." But remember — to all the other motorists YOU are the "other fellow."

Statistics can be boring. Also they can be fatal or severely painful. The National Safety Council warns us each year that some shocking figure will give us the statistics of the number of persons killed on the nation's highways. That is danger by the mile.

These holiday weekend fatalities are so dramatized that many of us shun the highways completely, fearful of getting involved in an accident over the weekend because of the heavy traffic. So, many remain close to home, and that involves danger by the yard.

Speed alone is not the cause of highway accidents, traffic experts warn us. But many accidents can be averted by keeping the speed to conform to existing conditions.

There are many ways we can avoid becoming a statistic over the coming holiday, and in fact every day of the week. The real challenge on our highways and community streets is not simply a matter of survival; it is a matter of living and let live.

Advice can be as boring as statistics, but it is worth heeding. Drive your car at a normal rate of speed, consistent with the moving traffic; forewear alcohol, as speed and liquor are the major causes of crashes. Avoid overloading your car with people or objects, which interfere with your driving or your visibility. Use your car signals and use your seatbelts.

There are two more points in our advice — keep your mind on your driving and keep your temper. Some drivers almost seem to be looking for an accident.

And while on the subject of highway safety, remember that the youngsters go back to school next week. That means a great increase in the number of boys and girls on bicycles, walking on the streets (instead of the sidewalks as they should) and school buses stopping at various intersections to load or unload pupils. Remember — stop when you see a school bus with lights flashing.

Don't be a statistic on this Labor Day weekend or any other day. And don't be the cause of someone else being a statistic either.

A Doughty Little Lady

Anyone who has been around a few years may recall Miss Vivien Kellems, the Connecticut industrialist, who for years has carried on a long battle against the inequities of the federal income tax.

By and large it has been a losing battle. But, undaunted at 72 years of age, she is again standing up for her convictions and her rights.

She is fighting for the return of more than $73,000 which she feels is due her as a result of taxes collected illegally from her because she has no husband.

Miss Kellems states: "There is no law that says single people must pay at a higher rate than married people. Congress never has, nor does it dare pass such a law; even the Supreme Court would have to declare it unconstitutional.

"If you can tax me because I am single, you can tax me because my eyes are gray, my hair is white, or because I am 72 years old. I have no more control over these conditions than I have over my marital status. How many eligible single men, age 72, or thereabouts, do you know?" she quipped.

Miss Kellems has raised an issue that will arouse the sympathy and support of a great many taxpayers.

A Vermonter Spoke Out

By the narrowest of margins, the Safeguard Anti-Ballistic Missile system has been approved in the Senate after long debate and much soul-searching by members of that august body.

Many people felt that perhaps the most telling argument for deployment of the ABM system was delivered in the Senate by Sen. Winston Prouty, 62, of Vermont, who, in two terms, has been virtually eclipsed by the senior Senator from the Green Mountain state, George Aiken.

Sen. Prouty, in the fashion of most Vermonters, gave the ABM proposition long deliberation before speaking out for it. He termed it the "extra button argument."

He said: "I envisioned a President faced with knowledge that enemy missiles were heading toward the United States. I inquired as to what options are now available to him in response to such an attack.

"I discovered that there are now two grim alternatives — do nothing or push the button that unleashes our devastating nuclear fury . . .

"But if there was another button available," Sen. Prouty said, "button to trigger our missiles designed to intercept those incoming weapons, the President could push it and halt the attack without immense loss of life at home or the catastrophic consequences of full retaliation . . . Safeguard provides an additional alternative, an extra button."

Later, Sen. Prouty said his mail had been running heavily against the ABM. "Even if I knew for certain that I was going to be a candidate (for re-election) and that my pro-ABM position would defeat me, I'd still take this stand."

"I have to live with my conscience on this."

Whether or not one agrees with Sen. Prouty's position, he is to be admired.

Sewage Is Problem

Editor of The Graphic:
Those of us involved in work on water pollution are often asked "When are they going to do something about the pollution in the . . .?" and naming the body of water of concern to the individual. The time is now, and "they" are all the citizens.

One of the major sources of pollution in sewage. Sewage is human wastes. We have lots of humans. We have lots of wastes. Your responsibility for clean water does not end when you flush the toilet.

Too often the pipe leads, directly or indirectly, to the nearest body of water. Last year, the League of Women Voters of Newton talked about the Charles River with the upper elementary school children. They saw pictures of sewage.

They know it isn't lovely, but they know it's there. We told them then that at times the only way to get something done is to get very angry and demand action. Now we want each citizen who uses water for any purpose to get very angry and demand action.

Sewage, if well treated, will go away. In the Clean Water Restoration Act, Congress promised federal aid to communities to build plants for sewage treatment. The gap between what Congress authorizes and what Congress appropriates is enormous. For fiscal 1970 the authorization was $1 billion.

The President's budget request was for only $214 million, and Congress could cut even that. You need not be an expert in government, budgets, or water pollution to realize that construction means money, and without money there will be no construction.

Massachusetts has already pre-financed $8.5 million of the federal share in recent years and no reimbursement has been received. How many communities are going to start building what they can't afford to complete? We need economy, of course, but unfortunately human wastes do not accommodate themselves to the budget.

Across the country people have proved their willingness to vote the funds needed locally.

The Citizens Crusade for Clean Water, representing about 35 concerned organizations including the League of Women Voters, is asking for a massive demand that cannot be ignored. We need that $1 billion for clean water and we ask your help. We elected our Senators, our Representatives, and our President to serve us, and they must be told that we are sick of filth in our waters. Please pick up your paper and pen and write now. Right now. Congress reconvenes right after Labor Day and action is imminent. If the League can help, call 332-5590 (League office) or 527-5214 (Water Resources chairman). If you don't fight, who will? It's your water, you know.

Deplores Neglect

Editor of The Graphic:
I am writing this letter to you in hopes that the legitimate complaints I express will be well considered.

The City of Newton should really be ashamed of itself. As one drives along the streets, one sees city owned property overgrown with grass, weeds and even garbage. Areas in Newton are becoming very rundown.

I am most familiar with the Oak Hill Area where the grass on street dividers, schools and shopping areas is a disgrace. The grass, now weeds, has not been cared for all summer long! The schools, such as the Spaulding and Memorial schools resemble something goals as in 1968.

City Librarian Henry E. Bates, Jr., will tour the branch library parties on the morning of September 6 and will greet the group celebrating its 100th anniversary.

Librarians and boys and girls alike have found the new programs more inviting this year, and as a result in 1969 twice as many young people carried through and completed their summer reading

In 1968 about 800 children signed up for the summer programs, and about 400 finished. This year, with relaxed rules and new multi-media programs, more children than ever before signed up with the Newton Free Library's literary polar bear to Cool It With Books.

Children who have earned an iceberg by reading and reporting on five books are eligible to participate in the branch library parties, and staff members anticipate that between 800 and 900 boys and girls will show up for the storybook characters.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis S. Hill of 84 Glenridge road, Dedham, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Evelyn Royce Hill, to Mr. Robert Varnum Spalding, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Varnum Spalding of Newton.

The bride-to-be was graduated from Milton Academy, Middlebury College, and the Radcliffe-Massachusetts General Hospital School of Nursing. Her father is a former director of the Massachusetts Eye and Ear Infirmary.

Mr. Spalding, a graduate of Brown University, received his masters and Ph.D. degrees from Yale University and is an officer of Studley, Shupert and Company, Inc., a Boston investment advisory firm. He served with the Army Infantry in the Far East, and his father is associate justice of the Massachusetts Supreme Judicial Court.

An October wedding is planned.

Spanish Senorita Is Bride Of Dr. James G. Colbert, Jr.

A tiny, 800-year-old stone church in the foothills of the Spanish Pyrenees was the scene of the marriage last Thursday in which Senorita Ana Goicoa Guerrero of Pamplona, Spain, became the bride of Dr. James G. Colbert, Jr., of West Roxbury.

The church — La Ermita de Nuestra Senora de Eunate — built early in the 12th Century, contained four wooden benches, each of which accommodated a maximum of six persons by crowding. Other guests at the wedding stood. There were no kneeling pads. Worshippers knelt on the stone floor.

In accordance with the procedure followed in the Spanish marriage ceremony, the actual bridal party consisted of the bride and groom, the father of the bride and the mother of the groom.

Under an ancient Spanish custom, the groom paid 13 coins for his bride. The coins must each be of the same nationality and amount.

In this instance 13 French coins were used. The groom's mother handed them to the priest who blessed them and passed them to the groom who, in turn, gave them to his bride, who, finally, placed them in the hands of her father to be kept as family treasures.

Following the nuptial Mass, a reception was held at La Hosteria Anotegui o Obanes — a small inn in the Basque country, not far from the Spanish-French border.

The young couple, now honeymooning in Spain, will make their home in West Roxbury after their arrival here on Labor Day.

Dr. Colbert is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Colbert of 85 Montview Street, West Roxbury. He is an assistant professor at Boston State College. His father is the news director and political columnist of the Graphic and the other newspapers published by the Transcript Press.

Dr. Colbert also is well known in Newton, having covered School Committee meetings and written special school articles for the Graphic.

The bride is the daughter of Senor and Senora Enrique Goicoa of Pamplona, Spain. Her mother's maiden name was Felisa Guerrero. Her name in Spain was Ana Goicoa Guerrero, with Goicoa her surname. In the United States her name before her marriage would be Ana Goicoa.

A graduate of the University of Navarra, where she was an outstanding student, the bride, just before her marriage, was awarded a Fulbright Fellowship for study at the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

operating expenses of all other city departments and $1.80 was added for cost of living salary increases for city employees and for Health and Accident Insurance.

The two items, the direct responsibility of the Mayor and the Board of Aldermen, accounted for $3.63 of the total increase.

Mayor Basbas said the latter two items "would indicate an increase of $11.86. However, through new valuations and increase in estimated receipts, the impact was reduced by about $2."

The major "culprit" in Newton's budget, Basbas said, is inflation, which leaped last year to a reported 7 per cent.

That the city government has exercised prudent financial management is shown in the fact, Basbas said, that in the past 10 years operating expenses have increased 100 per cent, although the tax rate has only gone up 65 per cent.

In the same period, Basbas said, school costs have gone from 35 cents per tax dollar to 47 cents while general city expenses have dropped from 65 to 53 cents.

During this time, school costs have risen 158 per cent and other expenses climbed 65 per cent.

"The burden on our homeowners, it seems to me, is approaching its limit," Basbas declared. He said that for relief, "I feel we must look to four sources:

1. Continued vigilance on the part of city government to guard against unnecessary increases in the kind, quality and extent of city services;

2. A further broadening of our tax base with minimum addition of services;

3. A reduction of state and county demand on our city budget;

4. An increase in tax sharing with the city by the federal and state governments."

June and July are peak months for outdoor activities and fun, but they are also peak months for drowning danger, reminds Liberty Mutual Insurance Companies. Last year nearly one third of all drownings occurred during these two months. Have fun swimming and boating this summer—but be careful, too.

Town Runs On Bicycles

By JOHN VIRTUE

JOINVILLE, Brazil (UPI) - Just about everybody pedals in Joinville, the bicycling capital of the western hemisphere.

There are 60,000 bicycles for a population of 105,000, or more than one for every two residents.

At noon and at night, the number of bicyclists pedaling from the city's 50 factories is so great that even residents accustomed to the sight stand in their doorways to watch the parade go by. Pity the poor motorist who doesn't watch out for a darting bicycle, out for a darting bicycle, cyclists use lights.

Joinville is a rarity among Brazilian cities, a flat area surrounded by hills and mountains. Combine this with the thrift of the German immigrants who founded Joinville in the last century and you get a city of cyclists.

"The descendants of the Germans are very punctual and very thrifty," explains as 1905 show the streets of Joinville filled with bicycles. That was just 55 years after a group of 118 immigrants, mostly German but also some Swiss and Norwegians, landed in southern Brazil and founded Joinville in the middle of a swamp.

About 80 per cent of the residents claim German ancestry. Fair-haired children outnumber dark-haired ones and German is widely spoken.

The city itself has become one of the textile centers of Brazil and boasts one of the nation's highest literacy rates as well as an awful lot of bicycles.

The eyes of the pronghorn antelope protrude from the sides of its head so it can scan a wide area without moving its head.

Newton High Gridders Are Defending Class A Champs

By GERRY GINSBURG

The Newton High football team will look for its second straight Class A championship this year as the 1969 version of the team began practice last Monday. At the helm again will be Jim Ronayne, now in his eighth year.

Last year's team, sporting with the rest in the second Kozolowski is also returning. An 8-1 record, had four all group.

All interested couples are urged to contact the Temple immediately since a meeting is being planned with Rabbi Chiel before the High Holidays.

Inquiries with respect to "Young Married" members at Temple Emanuel may be directed to Abraham Stadlen at 332-5770.

When Harvard coach John Yovicsin greets over 100 football candidates September 1, he'll be planning to look at Newton's Eliot Nierman as a possible starting defensive middle guard.

Nierman, a 6-0, 195-pound junior, gained valuable experience on the Varsity B team as a sophomore and the Crimson grid staff is looking at him this year as a possible starter after graduation erased most of the defensive unit.

Yovicsin calls Eliot "a hustling aggressive player who likes to hit and pursue." He played both offensive guard and middle guard as a freshman.

With a string of 10 consecutive finishes in the Ivy League's first division, including three title ties, Yovicsin hopes to come up with another contender this year.

Twenty lettermen return from last year's team which was 8-0-1 and shared the Ivy title with Yale.

Nierman, a 1967 Newton High School graduate, is majoring in physics and plans on a research career in that field. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Nierman of 83 Judith Road.

World population increases two per cent a year and world food production increases one per cent, the Massachusetts Audubon Society reports.

Offensive linemen will be the key in the defensive secondary.

That's what Newton is going to face this year. A preliminary report on the team's progress will come this Saturday as Newton scrimmages with BC High School.

Went Winless Last Year . . .

Newton South High Eleven Hopes To Rebound In '69

By LEWIS FREEDMAN

If there was one season that George Winkler could write off as a disaster of the seven years he has spent as head football coach at Newton South High, 1968 would be the year.

The only starter returning in the backfield is co-captain halfback Freddy Virgilio, who plays linebacker on defense. His job seems quite secure.

Tommy Nelson and Steve Stockman are the two leading quarterback candidates.

Both have limited experience, but of the two, Nelson appears to have a stronger arm, exhibited in the Wakefield and Melrose games, last fall.

Quarterback Tom Rezzuti will be the most sorely missed. Rezzuti passed, ran, received, returned punts and kicks, kicked off, kicked extra points and field goals and punted last season, in addition to being a full-time member of the defensive platoon at safety.

Three more backfield men, Nick Parnell, the team's leading ground-gainer, Pete Shephard, and John Lopez, are gone. From the line, missing will be co-captain Frank Vespa, Frank Signore, Ed Geraci, Co-captain Paul Dumais appears set at one end. Emmons Levine could grab the other spot. John Delaney, after two years of injuries, may move into the backfield as a set-back.

Others seeking starting positions are Dave Novick, Steve Sacks, Ken Chyten, John Corcoran, Richard Gould, Brian Franson, and Steve Hurter.

The more consistent aspect of the 1968 team is its inexperience at every position with the possible exception of the forward wall. In actuality, nearly every spot is up for grabs. The squad, in general, is big, but slow. Coach Winkler has engineered many surprises in the past, but none will compare if the 1969 Newton South football Lions come home a winner.

Yankee
BOSTON (UPI) — Carl Yastrzemski of the Boston Red Sox, the 1968 American League batting champion, hit .422 against Baltimore last season and .400 against Oakland. He finished the season with a .301 mark.

MacKenzie Eulogy By Cardinal

Following is the text of the eulogy for Bishop Eric F. MacKenzie, D.D., delivered at Sacred Heart Church in Newton Centre by Richard Cardinal Cushing, at the Com-celebrated Requiem Mass, Saturday morning:

For the saints, the church fixes the day of their death as the one on which they shall be forever remembered. It was on August 20th, 1153 that Bernard of Clairvaux, about the hour of tierce, departed this mortal life. On that same date this year, Bishop Eric MacKenzie, after a short illness, joined the company of the saints of God in eternal life.

Although separated by eight centuries - and each one very truly a man of his own time - there is much that made the greatness of the monk that made also the special quality of the bishop. They were both strong men, direct of word and action, aware of what was required of them and not reluctant to deliver it.

Capable of constructing the well-tuned phrase, and even the memorable phrase, they both disdained heady rationalizations and complex systems of thought. Their faith was as simple as it was strong; rooted in the revelation of the Scriptures and the writings of the Fathers, they had that spiritual honesty which does not shrink from measuring man against God, which is the source of true humility.

Human they both were, with human failings, but the full and final meaning of life for them was not in any Clairvaux, but across that "clear valley" into the regions of eternity.

Today we look back over more than fifty years of priestly labor in the life of Bishop MacKenzie. For a short time in Wellesley, and since then in Newton, he has fulfilled with zeal and talents that he stood out among our contemporaries.

He was not only a leader at his books and in the classroom, but on the fields of sport his ability and agility placed him predominantly first. Even as a youth, he had that well-rounded approach to human living which combined spiritual studies with physical fitness; he saw no rivalry in the study of theology and the study of music, he was at home in the world of letters and knew by name all the birds of the trees.

Small wonder that he was selected almost at once upon ordination to be himself a teacher for those aspiring to the priesthood.

For twenty-five years he held the chair of Moral Theology at St. John's Seminary, where he also taught Canon Law. More than a generation of priests came under his influence, priests to whom he was professor, counsellor, spiritual guide and friend. He was an unforgettable teacher, with that rare ability that makes simple and practical what in the textbooks seems both complex and remote.

He blended wit and wisdom with the Scot's love of the concise expression, and his classes were judged among the most memorable experiences of seminary life.

I know that many priests who are today in their middle years still recount happy recollections of this priest-professor when they gather together to talk of times gone by. There are some teachers who can be said to leave their mark upon their times and upon their students; such a one was he, and he accomplished it simply by being himself.

Just as half his priestly years were spent in the seminary, so also half were spent in the pastoral ministry. For a short time in Wellesley, and since then in Newton, he has fulfilled with zeal and talents that he stood out among our contemporaries.

He was not only a leader at his books and in the classroom, but on the fields of sport his ability and the complexities of law and life which this delicate task demands.

Here he has sought to bring solace and comfort whenever possible, aware at the same time that in some circumstances even the severity of the law, when tempered with kindness, can teach us to grow in virtue and goodness.

It was, I trust, no mere chance, but the product of careful thinking, that in 1950, when he was consecrated an auxiliary bishop with the late Bishop Markham, he chose for his episcopal motto: Pax diligentibus legem - "peace to those who love the law." It was in this light that he always saw the law - not something fearful or foreboding, not something onerous or oppressive - but a source of peace to those who accepted its milk yoke, a source of joy to those who saw in it God's will for men. As he loved the law, so also did he live it.

I remember reading years ago a line from the Institutes of Justinian which were written in the sixth century: "The precepts of the law are these: to live honorably, to injure no other man, to render to every man his due." This was what the law meant in the life of Bishop MacKenzie; it meant honor to oneself and justice toward all men; it meant meeting life responsibly and not selfishly, it meant accepting the rules and living by them. For him the law was a friend, a friend of justice and righteousness, a friend of goodness and virtue, a friend of moments of weakness and temptation, a friend that could direct the pilgrim on the road that leads to the Promised Land. Today in his own chosen words we can write his epitaph: Pax diligentibus legem - Peace to a lover of the law.

We all knew Bishop MacKenzie as a man of reticence and reserve, one who did not seek out overmuch the company of others, but found his personal happiness in the solitude of his books and music. He was a man who was often alone, but never lonely; he had many friends, but his style was to enjoy them sparingly.

All of this makes even more remarkable the several enthusiasms he had which required of him many public appearances and public discussions. One of these was especially close to his heart, and it was his association with the Boston Legal Aid Society and the Voluntary Defenders. Here was a practical place where he could put the law and himself at the service of the people, here was an opportunity where those in need or in trouble could find assistance.

He was not a joiner, and had very few formal associations with organizations or groups. But these societies for legal assistance were the exceptions; he seemed to know that here he could make a unique contribution to the public good through his own learning and experience. Quietly and continually over the years his interest endured, but it was characteristically unheralded and unannounced.

Another one of Bishop MacKenzie's active interests was what we have learned to call ecumenism, but which he would have called simply "being a good neighbor." He believed that the place to begin work on religious reconciliation was at home, one's own parish and one's own city. He was an example of this, and his parish bulletins many times carried short ecumenical exhortations concerning local developments on the church scene. I recall particularly in this connection his many years of warm friendship with the late Rabbi Albert Gordon, a teacher and scholar of great reputation, and a Newton neighbor.

Through the Rabbi and the Bishop the two congregations have learned to know each other and to understand with new meaning the religious traditions by which they live. It was in this kind of practical world that Bishop MacKenzie lived; for him one could only change the universe by changing one's own small part of it.

As I have said, he scorned these few words to a close how grateful I have been over the last quarter of a century for the collaboration and counsel of good Bishop MacKenzie. As I am quick to confess, I am very far from being an expert in ecclesiastical or Canon Law, but the Bishop was always ready to supply me with the proper directives from his own vast learning on this subject. Even more important than this, I have been many times well served by his practical wisdom and his immense common sense.

As I have said, he aspired complexity and what we used to call rimearole; he believed in facing issues squarely and resolving them with dispatch. This style of action was very compatible with my own, and I can say today that I never turned to him for advice and counsel when I did not find myself wiser because of the consultation. I will miss him mightily.

We ask God today to welcome into his kingdom this stalwart Christian soul. There he will meet again his priestly brother Howard, who was so untimely taken from among us, and his saintly mother with whom he was privileged to share so many years of a long life.

The small family of father, mother and sons is now reunited in eternal glory. For the rest of us, we are the bereaved; we have suffered a "death in the family" and our hearts are heavy. We are not, however, mourners, for our faith consoles us with the promise of immortality. Death for us is not an end but a beginning, and now Bishop MacKenzie begins a new life in the Lord. And so we say farewell - but only for a time - until the divine summons calls us all to share in the glory of the eternal God. May he rest in peace!

Police Chief Gives Holiday Weekend Hints

"Many family groups returning from summer resort areas for the early opening of schools will add to normal Labor Day highway congestion this year," Chief Quinn said today.

"Please do not overcrowd your car with people or objects which will interfere with the safe operation of the vehicle or obstruct your vision," he continued.

"There is little doubt that speed and the use of liquor plays the major role in serious or fatal motor vehicle crashes," Quinn stated.

"The only antidotes are preventive measures and this means simply, 'do not drive if you drink' and 'drive at a speed which is safe for existing road conditions."

"Please also recommended the use of signals and the use of seat belts to prevent minor accidents from causing serious injuries.

Quinn said that enforcement personnel will be out en masse to regulate and control traffic and to assist drivers in protecting themselves and their families, but he suggested that those who are not required to travel this week and find some other means of enjoying the holiday as their contribution to the highway safety effort.

Population Increase Unchecked in India

NEW DELHI (UPI) —

Despite extensive family planning measures taken in the past decade, the population of India is expected to reach 560 million when the next census is taken on March 1, 1971. The country's population was 439 million when the last census was taken in 1961.

Estimates indicate that the population will reach 695 million in 1981. Any substantial reduction in population growth will be seen only after 1981, according to experts.

Famous Paris Buildings Gleam After Washing

PARIS (UPI) — If you are planning some sightseeing in Paris be sure to pack some easy walking shoes and a light pair of binoculars.

Some of the best sights of the City of Lights nowadays are way overhead and spread out around town.

Art lovers are finding that since culture minister Andre Malraux had the Louvre and Notre Dame Cathedral scrubbed clean of centuries of grime, they are as interesting outside as in.

The facade of Notre Dame is breathtaking. Patient months of work by a small skilled team armed with soft brushes and cold water have revealed serried ranks of sculptures and traceries of stone which formerly were barely visible under the dirt. Every foot scanned especially with those binoculars — reveals a new tribute to the genius of the 12th century builders.

The story is the same at the Louvre, where literally miles of stone on the walls of the former palace have been cleaned to a glowing pinkish yellow color and the intricate carvings of armories of processing machines or a stonemasons have been brought to life.

Down Front

by RAND SMITH

We can't help but have mixed thoughts on the recent phenomenon in Woodstock, New York where over 300,000 young people from 14 to 24 years of age met, lived, ate and listened together for three days under fantastic conditions in an area of 600 acres. To explain how this can happen we must compare it to something we are familiar with. Imagine everyone in the city of New Haven living without buildings, kitchens, sewerage, roads, hospitals, phones in an area about the size of the Arnold Arboretum. Now picture this melange listening to music being played and sung so far away that 80 per cent of the people cannot see the performers.

It is nearly impossible to conceive of this many human beings coping with a situation like this, then add to your amazement the fact that 3,000 to 4,000 reported accidents or illnesses would represent about one per cent of the total.

Stories of drug use, particularly pot (marijuana) would only increase one's incredulity that more damage of all kinds was not done. One does not have to approve of, or even understand, such as happening as this in order to be at least interested in what psychological and social factors are in force which could attract, involve and then disperse a number of people equal to nearly 40 armed forces divisions with merely two deaths, a dozen serious accidents and a few hundred bad stomachs and runny noses.

Now let's understand right here that most readers of this column would probably not go around the corner to hear Jim Hendrix, must less go round trip from Portland, Oregon or New Orleans. Matter of fact, most of these people in Woodstock own records of all the performers they heard and could see and hear them soon again in person at home or at college. So why the trip? why the mess? why suffer the mud from the constant rain? why the inconceivable discomfort? why, why, why? I submit it was not the music; it was not the trip (geographical or psychic); it was not any of the obvious, surface things —

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Engine speed is probably the most important factor affecting oil consumption in cars, according to the National Automobile Club.

In some cases, raising the average car speed from 30 to 60 miles an hour may increase oil consumption 10 times, and more extreme cases are not infrequent.

Mexico-U.S. Trade
MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico buys $1,090,000,000 (b) in goods from the United States per year, compared with the $619,400,000 (m) worth of Mexican products bought by the United States, according to the American Chamber of Commerce of Mexico.

The Chamber says trade restrictions should be eased in both countries and the United States should buy more Mexican goods to provide the income Mexico needs to buy U.S. goods.

The Gourmet Adventures of THE HIGHLANDS

Have you ever tried freezing strawberries? Wash and drain berries; remove hulls. Place whole strawberries in freezer containers; cover with chilled heavy syrup, leaving headspace. (If using wide-top freezer container, allow 1/2-inch headspace for pints; allow 1-inch headspace for quarts. For narrow-top containers, allow 1/2-inch headspace for pints, 1/2-inches for quarts.) Seal and label containers; freeze.

To make heavy syrup, combine 4% cups sugar and 4 cups boiling water. Stir to dissolve sugar; chill thoroughly. Makes enough syrup for 10 to 12 pints strawberries.

Early Planning Underway For Redistricting Edict

For "a couple of months," census to be finished in the Newton Election Dept. has been working on preliminary planning in preparation for the court-ordered one-man, one-vote redistricting in January.

Alan W. Licarie, executive director of the Newton Election Commission, said his department is using the yearly police census to get a general picture of the population shift in the city.

He said the police listing is only a "guideline and it could be off." He explained, however, that the reasons they're using the 1968 police census instead of the more complete 1965 state census is because those state records have been destroyed and there is no copy available anywhere.

Licarie said the reason for the planning now is so that as soon as the court-ordered census of all persons, no matter what their ages, is finished, then a couple of weeks later the aldermen can redistrict. He expects the

One of the highlights of the Parents Day activities was the play "Snow White" which was presented by the campers.

On rainy days they concentrated on quiet games and craft projects, including the Chief Perkins, On Jerry Lewis Telethon Mon.

Chief Frederick A. Perkins, Jr. of Newton will represent the Massachusetts Fire Chiefs Association at the Fourth Annual Jerry Lewis Labor Day Telethon for the benefit of Muscular Dystrophy.

The machines are used throughout the State of Connecticut, in New York State and in more than 10,000 communities throughout the country. The machines replace a punch-card ballot system used in three recent elections in Newton.

The City has trial-leased 208 voting machines for $25,000 for a period covering this fall's local election and the 1970 state election.

The machines were first used in the Commonwealth in 1941 in Brookline and their use has increased since that time.

The machines being delivered to Newton are the latest model made and feature a printed return sheet which provides vote totals within seconds after the closing of the polls.

In announcing the use of AVM machines, Mayor Monte G. Basbas said the City will launch an extensive Voter-Information Program to familiarize Newton's 50,000 voters with the new election system.

"Newton voters have always been informed voters and several have expressed interest in a program to familiarize themselves with our new accurate and rapid election system," Alan W. Licarie, Executive Secretary of the Election Commission said.

He added that the program will include demonstration sessions in connection with registration programs and said that special literature will be prepared and distributed to Newton voters.

"This will be a city-wide Voter-Information Program," Licarie stated, "and will involve city departments as well as public service efforts by local organizations."

Young Marrieds Of Hadassah To Sponsor Party

Newton Police Will Enforce Parking Bans on Patriot Fans

Residents of Newton's Ward Six, most seriously affected by the influx of motor vehicles, certain to accompany the announced Sunday games at Boston College Stadium were this week assured by Mayor Monte G. Basbas that parking and traffic restrictions would be enforced to safeguard the area against unwarranted intrusions.

The Mayor has recommended that during the period of the Sunday Patriot games, the Newton Police exercise emergency police powers to enforce no parking bans on streets where parking would create a public hazard and interfere with access to residents to their homes and driveways.

The use of emergency authority would be for the time required by the Traffic Commission and the Board of Aldermen to enact permanent restrictions.

The B.C. Stadium is located in Boston and Newton has no control over its use. Its use, however, brings thousands of motor vehicles into Newton. The augmented Sunday schedule threatens to aggravate the situation by adding to the number coming to the area.

Mayor Basbas states that he certainly does not want to put a damper on the enthusiasm of the Boston Patriots and its supporters, and on sports in general. But he is deeply concerned by the inadequacy of arrangements for parking and traffic control and he has communicated his concern to the President of the College. He is hopeful that better plans will be developed.

One suggestion made by Mayor Basbas is that Patriots provide bus service from large parking areas available at Woodlawn and Riverside MBTA stations.

Rep. Shea Again Calls On MTA For Evening Meetings

For the third time since June Rep. Alderman H. James Shea, Jr. today called upon the Newton Redevelopment Authority to reschedule their meeting time from 8:30 Tuesday morning to an evening hour when average citizens could attend.

In his latest request Shea stated: "Since June of 1967 I have informally requested you to conduct your monthly meetings in the evening rather than at 8:30 in the morning as is presently your policy. This June I wrote to you and formally requested that you change your meeting time to an evening hour more convenient for the average citizen."

"I also ask you to exercise candor and forthrightness and to act upon my request, even if you think it must be denied, rather than to ignore this reasonable request as appears to be the case from your present conduct."

In his past requests to the Authority, Shea has indicated that to continue your present policy of conducting your monthly meetings early in the morning is to give the impression that you choose to avoid public scrutiny and that you reject the concept of citizen involvement in the political process." He has also pointed out that "The Newton Board of Aldermen, Newton School Committee and Newton Housing Authority are similar to your Authority in that they are made up of appointed or elected citizens who serve without compensation. These citizen-officials all have great demands upon their schedules, but they do make it their policy to meet in the evenings thus permitting the average citizen to actually attend their meetings in accord with the 'Open Meeting Law' and in accord with the desire to expand citizen access to governing instrumentalities."

Chief Perkins will appear Monday morning on Channel 56 during one of the local cut-aways which have been scheduled every hour of the 19½ hour telethon which will originate live from the Americana Hotel in New York City beginning August 31.

Fire Chiefs throughout Massachusetts have supported M.D.A.A. Inc. for over 15 years in their effort to find the cause and cure of this crippling disease that affects so many children.

Chief Perkins is not only active in the Fire Chiefs Association but is also a Civil Defense Director in District 13.

Students wishing to enroll at Newton High School or Newton South High School for the 1969-1970 school year should call during the week of September first for an appointment with a counselor.
